G. O. P. TO KEEP OLD LEADERS IN CONGRESS

Coolidge Denies Report That Fess, Ohio, Will Supplant Curtis

NO CHANGES INDICATED

Statement Is Made to Preserve Harmony in Houses of Congress

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1926, by Post Pub. Co.

Washington—President Coolidge is just now more anxious than ever to preserve harmonious relations with the leadership of the Republican party in congress. That's why he nipped in the bud something that was innocent calculated to become the subject of much gossip on Capitol hill and possible ill-feeling.

The president let it be known that he had not changed his spokesmen in congress and that these were the leaders in both the senate and house. It had been suggested in a newspaper article that Senator Fess of Ohio would become a special representative of the president now that Senator Butler of Massachusetts leaves the senate. The White House was careful to point out that while every respect was entertained for the judgment and abilities of the Ohio senator, nevertheless it was unfair to him as to the chief executive to cast him in a role that he was not to play.

BUTLER NOT SPOKESMAN

Mr. Coolidge used the same caution to make it clear that he had never regarded Senator Butler of Massachusetts, as his spokesman in congress. To have employed the Massachusetts senator in that capacity would have been to concede a lack of confidence in Senator Curtis of Kansas. (Turn to page 19, col. 1)

VESUVIUS STILL IS THROWING OUT LAVA

Expect Volcano to Resume Normal Activities Within Next Few Days

Naples—(P)—Mount Vesuvius Monday still was busily throwing out smoke and lava. In the opinion of the officials of the observatory on the volcano, however, the volcano is likely to resume its normal activities within the next two or three days.

A small eruptive crater persists in throwing up incandescent material from a circular cone 50 meters in diameter. The molten lava at night lights up the vicinity of the crater, presenting a weird spectacle.

Rain has been falling and, coming in contact with the lava, it has created a steam curtain which envelopes the entire course of the lava stream.

FIVE DIE IN BURNING OKLAHOMA FARM HOME

Marlow, Okla.—(P)—An entire family of five was killed at a farm, five miles north of here, early Sunday and their bodies were cremated in a fire that destroyed their home. The coroner said Monday that evidence showed that J. E. Seymour, head of the family, committed the deed.

Seymour was to have been taken to Oklahoma Sunday for an examination to determine whether he was sane. It was believed he had been informed of the impending examination.

Funeral services for the family will be held Monday. A single casket will be used. The victims, besides Seymour, were his wife and three children.

PROBE CAMPAIGN FUND OF SENATOR BUTLER

Boston—(P)—Expenditures of the Republican state committee of Massachusetts during the last campaign in which Senator William M. Butler was defeated by David I. Walsh, will come under scrutiny of the United States senate investigating committee. Assurance of this has been received from Chairman James A. Reed by Conrad W. Crockett, general counsel for the Liberal Civic league, who telegraphed the senator regarding Republican expenditures which he described as "staggering."

SHIPSTEAD WOULD CURB SHORT WHEAT SELLING

Washington, D. C.—(P)—An investigation into the marketing of wheat, corn and other grains is favored by Senator Shipstead, Farmer-Laborer, Minnesota, he said Monday, after a call on President Coolidge. Short selling on a large scale of these commodities should be checked, he said, because excessive speculation has a depressing effect on prices. A moderate amount of short selling, he said, might be necessary to facilitate the marketing of crops.

500 HUNTERS MISSING IN BLIZZARD

Three Boys Killed In Explosion At Ashland

Cause of Blast Unknown, but Is Believed to Have Been Carbide Gas

Ashland—(P)—A sudden mysterious explosion, which turned the basement of Theodore Holbo home into a volcano of gaseous flame, took the lives of three boys and badly injured another Sunday night. The cause of the explosion has as yet not been determined but fire department authorities Monday morning said it was their belief that it was caused by the burning of carbide gas.

The dead are Einer Holbo, 15; Jobart Holbo, 14, and Fred Gould, 15. Bernard Holbo, 19, was seriously burned and his hands cut as he climbed from the basement through a window, but he is expected to live. According to the parents of the boys the three who were in the habit of playing together spent the afternoon on the city dump. Footprints in the snow followed Monday morning indicated that they had played around the old automobiles which were thrown there.

CANS OF CARBIDE

When they came home for supper, all three had cans of some substance. The Gould boy told his mother that it was carbide and that he could tell by the smell. Although no one knows definitely it was decided by the authorities Monday morning that the three boys, who were playing in a room off from the furnace room, had placed the cans of supposed carbide on a small stove to thaw them out. Snow or water may have added producing gas ignited either by a match or a spark from the stove. The room was filled with flame. Bernard, who was in the furnace room, said that the door between the two rooms opened and a flash of fire came through. As a result, Mrs. Ingelborg Holbo, and Arnold, an older son, who were in the kitchen above the room said the entire house rocked with the explosion.

Searching blindly through the dense smoke which filled the upstairs Arnold found the telephone and gave the fire alarm. He and his aunt then went to the basement and carried the Gould boy to the head of the basement stairs.

CAPITAL BUSY PLANNING FOR NEXT SESSION

Nelson, Leader of Insurgents, Expects Reconciliation in Party

Washington—(P)—The hope of congressional spiders to spin their webs indefinitely in peace within the favored nooks of the capitol was definitely shattered Monday with revival of activity that has not been approached since the national legislature shut up shops and went home four months ago.

In the house wing of the big white building, the committee on ways and means and five sub-committees were called to prepare for the reconvening of congress and all of the recognized Republican leaders had engagements to discuss the speakers' industry in their offices, while in the senate a number of similarly disastrous procession conferences had been arranged.

QUESTIONS OF INSURGENTS

The heavy tones of the controversy over farm relief were reverberating thunderously up and down the corridors. There was a swelling tide of discussion of the reinstatement in Republican party councils of those insurgents who were excluded after their break with the LaFollette-Wheeler ticket in 1924.

The ways and means committee is directing its efforts toward writing a bill for adjustment of alien property claims that have been dangling in the air during the eight years since the signing of the armistice.

FARM RELIEF DISPUTE

Farm relief controversy received new impetus Monday with the publication of an attack by Representative Dickinson, Republican, Iowa, on the business men's commission on agriculture, being organized by the national industrial conference board and the United States Chamber of commerce to formulate a program for cooperation of all national economic groups in the interest of agriculture.

Charles Nagel of St. Louis, has been made chairman of the commission which Representative Dickinson suggested had been projected, "not to get more information but to filibuster against passage of a genuine farm relief bill at the approaching session of congress."

Taking up the status of his fellow insurgents, representative Nelson, Republican, Wisconsin, leader of the group in the house, in a statement published Monday said he had "reason to know that there are many good friends in the regular Republican ranks who are anxious to do the right thing and I am satisfied that the so-called insurgents will be given their proper places in the party again." He added that he expected the reconciliation to be effected in a friendly manner.

SENATOR LENROOT GOES NORTH TO SHOOT DEER

Superior—(P)—Unable to resist the pull of the red gods, Senator Irving L. Lenroot arrived here Monday from Washington and prepared at once to go to his hunting cabin north of Manitowish Falls. When he departed for Washington over a month ago he said he would forego the pleasure of a deer hunt this year, but the annual urge was too strong. He seldom fails to get his buck. He refused to talk politics, declaring he had nothing else on his mind but deer.

STATES CAN'T COMPEL RAILROAD EQUIPMENT

Washington, D. C.—(P)—States are prohibited from prescribing equipment for railroad locomotives, operating within their borders, the supreme court declared in cases from Wisconsin and Georgia.

HEAVY SNOWS MAROON MEN IN MICHIGAN

Drifts Force Hunters to Abandon Cars in Sparsely Settled Areas

Sault Ste. Marie—(P)—The upper Michigan peninsula district continued Monday in the grip of a blizzard which has trapped hundreds of hunters in the storm area as well as tied up shipping along the St. Marys river and the Lake Superior district. So severe has been the blow to navigation that marine men forecast a premature end to the Lake shipping season.

With weather bureau officials predicting much colder weather, accompanied by a continuation of the snow storm, some apprehension was felt Monday regarding the safety of scores of hunters snowbound in the district.

50-MILE GALE BLOWS

A 50-mile gale, which blew the snow into great drifts along roads, made those highways impassable for automobile traffic and hundreds of hunters who journeyed to the wooded district in machines were forced to abandon them and attempt to make their way afoot to the nearest railway centers. It was estimated that more than 500 hunters were trapped in the sparsely settled district by the storm. Heavy losses will be sustained by Lake shipping interests due to the storm it is believed.

As the result of low visibility caused by the snowfall practically every ship in the region Sunday was forced to tie up at anchor.

FREIGHTERS ARE AGROUND

The freighters George H. Ingalls and the William K. Fields went aground, the Ingalls off Point Aux Pins, and the Fields off Pipe Island, Mich. Tugs and lighters worked frantically to free the ships lest they be impounded for the winter by ice formations.

The steamer Cottonwood went on the rocks at Copper Line point. The steamer Herman Hettler, which went aground at Grand Island, has broken up.

FOUR MEN ESCAPE FROM DANE-CO JAIL

Postoffice Robbery Suspect Is One of Jail-breakers Sunday

Madison—(P)—Four prisoners, who made a clever escape from the Dane county jail Sunday night, were still at large Monday, and squads of deputy sheriffs and police combing the surrounding country were without a trace of their whereabouts.

Richard Taylor, 37, alleged postoffice robber, Frank Bussie, 21 and Arthur Rowe, 19, convicted of robbing a local clothing store, both of Chicago, and Herschel Frankel, 25, alleged forger, were the prisoners to escape through a narrow air chute and a makeshift rope proving to be their means of exit.

Taylor was under indictment by a United States grand jury for complicity in the robbery of the Prairie du Chien and New Lisbon postoffices.

Acting upon information received from Marshall, that men answering the description of the escaped prisoners had been seen, Sheriff Dargatz immediately sent deputy sheriffs into the territory in an effort to verify the report.

BADGER WOMAN BURNS TO DEATH SATURDAY

Janesville—(P)—Mrs. Anastasia Jarman was burned to death and her husband, John, so severely burned that his life is despaired of at Deaconess hospital, Monroe, where he was taken, when the Jarman home, near Brooklyn, was destroyed by fire, late Saturday. The origin of the fire has not been determined.

ROCKEFELLER DOCTOR DIES MONDAY MORNING

Cleveland, O.—(P)—Dr. Hamilton Flske Biggar, 87, long personal physician to John D. Rockefeller, Sr., died here Monday morning. Dr. Biggar's death was due to a general breaking down of bodily powers ushered in by age, according to physicians. The aged medical man, who practiced in Cleveland more than 50 years, was a bosom friend of the oil magnate in addition to being his physician for many years. Dr. Biggar had predicted his billion-dollar friend would live to be a hundred.

STATE Y. M. C. A. BUDGET SHOWS GAIN FOR 1927

Racine—(P)—The Y. M. C. A. of the state will have an increased amount of money with which to carry on its activities during 1927. The budget committee reported a total of $99,550, as against $86,000 for 1926, and $101,000 for 1925.

The Older Boys conference came to a close here Sunday afternoon. The boys attended services in the churches during the forenoon and in the afternoon there were reports of committee and an address by the Rev. F. W. Schloerb, Naperville Ill.

FASCISTS NOW GIVEN RIGHT TO EXPRESS OPINION IN ITALY

Rome—(P)—Free speech has been granted to Fascist. They now may criticize freely the methods and policies of Mussolini and his lieutenants.

Local leaders of the party have received orders to give to members of their organizations unlimited right of free discussions, which was withdrawn from Fascists in the early days of the revolution. Robert Farinacci, formerly Fascist secretary-general, has contended that continued withholding of permission from the lowly blackshirts to have a voice in the deliberations of the party finding it was without the wholehearted support of the masses.

Fascists are not given an actual voice in the council, which Benito Mussolini, through his aides, will continue exclusively to exercise.

COURT RULES ON MEDICINAL LIQUOR LIMIT

Supreme Court Upholds Volstead Act Restriction in New York Case

Washington, D. C.—(P)—Volstead act restrictions upon the quantity of whiskey physicians may prescribe to patients each ten days were sustained Monday by the supreme court.

The decision was by a sharply divided court, four members, Justice Sutherland, McReynolds, Stone and Butler dissenting. The dissenting opinion was that the state had exclusive jurisdiction to the use of intoxicating liquors for other than beverage purposes, and that congress had not prohibited the use of liquor for medicinal purposes and that it did not have authority to do so.

The interesting question of the right of physicians to prescribe intoxicating liquor without legal limit reached the Supreme Court in an appeal brought by Dr. Samuel W. Lambert of New York city.

REQUIRED JUDGMENT

Lambert encountered resistance in his judgment the use of whiskey as a medicine, without any effective substitute available. He demanded recognition by the government of what he claimed was his right as a physician and as his duty toward his patients to use as a medicine of scientific liquor in certain cases was necessary for the proper treatment of patients in order to afford relief from known ailments. The physical condition of the patient, in such cases, determined, he insisted, the quantity to be used. He never had and did not intend to prescribe liquor for beverage purposes, he stated, but he declared that the provision of the Volstead act under which he was prohibited from prescribing more than one pint of spirituous liquor to a patient within ten days was an unlawful encroachment by Congress upon his right as a physician and therefore void.

Peking Rule Collapses As Officers Quit Posts

Peking—(P)—The civil government of Peking, stripped of its power over the republic because of the factional stress among its provinces, has resigned in what is said to be an effort to force northern militarists to assume responsibility for the administration.

In telegrams sent to the military commanders of the north, upon whom the Peking officials were depending on power to enforce their decrees, the members of the cabinet call upon the war lords to establish "an effective government for the welfare of the country."

Collapse of the Peking government which has been for sometime a government in name only, without power to enforce decrees, quell uprisings or raise sufficient revenue to maintain even a show of authority is believed foreboded by the present cabinet resignation. The retiring government was the successor to the Kuomintang. The Kuomintang forces have not had the brilliant successes of the Cantonese but through the alliance of Gordon is created around the Peking domain which virtually limits egress to the sea.

The southern capital is being moved from Canton into the heart of the Tanzi valley at WuChung so that the new communistic or "committee form" of government is gradually crowding the more conservative administration out of the picture. Of the war lords to whom the Peking cabinet members addressed their retirement announcements, none has retained his military standing in the face of the Cantonese onslaught.

CANTONESE MAY ADVANCE SHANGHAI

Shanghai—(P)—The first manifestation of a contemplated advance by the Cantonese toward Shanghai, the last real stronghold of Marshal Sun Chuan Fong, eastern ruler, was felt here Monday when the Chinese general chamber of commerce of Shanghai received threatening letters demanding that a strike be called here. These follow threats of a general strike at Hankow, which has been seized by labor unions.

RUMANIA IS UPSET OVER NEXT RULER

Trouble May Be Settled at Paris Meeting of Contending Parties

Paris—(P)—Queen Marie's arrival Tuesday is regarded as offering the possibility that trouble over the Rumanian dynasty growing out of the serious illness of King Ferdinand will be composed in the French capital.

Former Premier Bratiano whose political influence in Rumania is most powerful, and Nicholas Jorga, leader of the opposition will be in Paris. Former Crown Prince Carol already is here and has announced that he again will meet his mother.

FIGHT CENTERS ON CAROL

Bratiano is opposed to Carol's returning home in order to be ready to head the Hohenzollern dynasty in case of the demise of Ferdinand. Carol abdicated his right to the throne. On the other hand, M. Jorga is favorable to Carol becoming king.

Rumanians in Paris friendly to Carol say that if the former crown prince, who is declared to be extremely popular in army circles in his homeland, should elect to set up headquarters near the Rumanian frontier the army "would have something to say."

OPPOSITION IS SURPRISE

Carol asserts that he has no relations with M. Bratiano, whose abrupt declaration of opposition to the former crown prince came somewhat as a surprise. It is reported that all the opposition parties are favorable to Carol.

Notwithstanding the latest reports assert that King Ferdinand is doing as well as could be expected, the chances of Europe are waiting with intense interest the progress of the patient in his struggle with death and the steps that are being taken to cope with a formidable crisis which it thought will inevitably follow death.

STATE OPENS WAR ON QUACK MEDICS

Examiners Will Concentrate at First in Milwaukee; Will Meet Friday

Milwaukee—(P)—A war on quackery in Wisconsin is planned by the state board of medical examiners, who will concentrate at first in Milwaukee because this city "has more and worse quacks than smaller communities."

Dr. Robert E. Flynn, secretary of the board declared Monday.

The state board has called a meeting for Friday when it will attempt to unite city and county officials in an effort to rid the city of pseudo-medics who prey on the sick.

"Our board has been investigating illegal practitioners of medicine and osteopathy the last five months," said Dr. Flynn. "We have been successful in locating some of the more notorious charlatans and hope to dispose of their cases shortly."

INDIANS SAY KILLING DEER IS BIRTHRIGHT

Rhineland—(P)—Arrested on a charge of violating the state conservation laws, four Potawatomi Indians defended their action in killing a deer with the declaration that it was the birthright of their race to obtain venison for food. They were paroled to the Indian agent at Laona.

RESIGNS

Tris Speaker
Cleveland, O.—(P)—Tris Speaker, leader of the Cleveland Indians since mid season 1919, resigned as manager Monday. Speaker set fourth he had absolutely no difficulties with the ball club over salary or anything else, that conditions are as amicable as they ever have been but he made up his mind that if he was to get anywhere in the business world he would have to take the definite step he has decided upon sooner or later. Speaker has several business propositions under consideration.

ADMIT SENATE TESTIMONY IN DOHENY TRIAL

Judge Over-ruled Objections of Defense in Oil Conspiracy Case

Washington, D. C.—(P)—A federal government petition which would have involved a sweeping inquiry into the legality of all the oil leases granted under President Harding's celebrated executive order was rejected Monday by the supreme court.

The court refused to review the Belgrade Oil company case in which the crucial issue was whether the president had authority to transfer the naval oil reserves from the custody of the navy department to that of the interior department. The Belgrade lease, like that given Edward L. Doheny, was on land in the Elk Hills reserve in California. The government charged the lease had been made without requesting proposals without advertising and without competitive bidding, by direction of Albert B. Fall while secretary of the interior.

The lower court decided against the government.

Edward L. Doheny's own story of his $100,000 transaction with Albert B. Fall, as told before the senate oil committee, was admitted in evidence Monday in the Doheny-Fall oil conspiracy trial.

The justice Hoehling's decision, placing the senate committee record before the jury, was a sweeping victory for the prosecution but is expected to become one basis of an appeal by the defense in case the former cabinet official and the oil man are convicted.

The justice acted after long argument by attorneys who presented their contentions while the jury was excluded from the courtroom.

AID TO PROSECUTION

The decision opened the way for the prosecution to continue its presentation of evidence on which it hopes to prove that the $100,000 was part of a conspiracy which resulted in award of the Elk Hills oil lease to Doheny, while Fall was secretary of the interior.

The court's opinion was sweeping. It overruled every objection raised by the defense and permitted the statement to the committee by Fall to go before the jury along with that of Doheny.

In this statement, submitted to the committee in writing, Fall said the $100,000 which he purchased additional ranch property in New Mexico came from Edward B. McLean publisher of the Washington Post.

'KING' BENJAMIN DENIES TWO QUOTED STATEMENTS

Benton Harbor, Mich.—(P)—Benjamin Harrison, head of the House of David, issued a statement denying certain statements attributed to him in recent interviews. He said:

"There are some of the statements to which I hereby specifically challenge attention, which are false and made for the express purpose of deceiving the public, to wit:

"'He declared he is the brother of Christ, that he is immortal and that in a short time there will be witnessed the consummation of his enemies.' The above is false in every particular. I made no such statement.

"'He said he fled because his attorneys feared he would not have a fair trial, because of the feeling that was aroused when the charges were first made known.' I never made any such statement to any person whatsoever, and the same is absolutely false."

Courthouse, Somerville, N. J.—(P)—The defense in the Hall-Mills murder trial rested its case Monday afternoon at 2:19, after spending slightly less than seven days in presenting its testimony. The state had required 13 days in presenting its case, with rebuttal to follow the defense's closing. The defense introduced 82 witnesses, while the state used 84 on direct testimony.

WALKS TO STAND

Dressed in black, she walked briskly to the stand where on Saturday at adjournment she was meeting with quiet voice the fire of Prosecutor Alexander Simpson's cross-examination. The first question asked by Simpson was as to whether the witness had ever spent a summer vacation with her husband at Mannesquan or any New Jersey seashore resort. She answered that she had not. "You say you saw nothing suspicious in the conduct of your husband and Mrs. Mills?" continued Simpson.

"No."

"You saw them in church, and you never saw anything suspicious, although you did see a camera in this courtroom Saturday?"

PHOTOGRAPHER EJECTED

Mrs. Hall said the camera was in her line of sight, and to be plainly seen. She had the photographer who held the camera ejected Saturday by speaking to Judge Parker.

"Did you ever have any talk or quarrel with your husband with reference to his attentions to Mrs. Mills?" asked Simpson.

"No," answered Mrs. Hall.

SERVE INJUNCTION ON CITY TO BLOCK FLOODING GROUNDS

Resident Near First Ward School Objects to Drainage Facilities

An injunction restraining the city from flooding the First Ward school playgrounds for skating purposes was served on Mayor Albert C. Rule Monday morning. Ed S. Brunschweiler, whose property adjoins the school grounds, is the plaintiff in the action.

A hearing at which the city is asked to show cause why a temporary injunction should not be issued will be held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, Dec. 4, before Municipal Judge Theodore R.

About a year ago the city laid a drain pipe from the school grounds to E. Eldorado-st. It is pointed out in the papers served upon the city. When the ice on the grounds melts in the spring, the drain pipe carries the water from the grounds to the north side of E. Eldorado-st. which is neither paved nor has much of a slope to aid in carrying off the water, the plaintiff alleges.

Because of the small slope the water seeps along the north side of the street to a driveway leading into the property of the plaintiff, making it wet and putting the driveway in poor condition for a number of weeks in the spring, it is stated in the papers. It also is alleged that the water seeps into the cellar of her home, not only making the cellar damp but requiring repairs to the foundation.

It is not likely that the city will offer any opposition to the injunction proceedings, Mayor Rule intimated Monday. The process of flooding the grounds is costly to the city, and if residents do not want the skating rink the city will not furnish one, he pointed out.

Residents of that neighborhood threatened to serve an injunction on the city several weeks ago if the city did not provide adequate facilities there. Believing that the residents would prefer to have the rink if the grounds were properly drained, steps were being taken to carry out the wishes of the people, according to city officials.

The injunction probably will mean abolishment of the skating rink this winter.

PLUMMER SPEAKS TO MOSINEE LEGION POST

H. S. Plummer, past state commander of the American Legion and present national executive committee man, will be the principal speaker at the annual banquet of the Mosinee Legion post Monday evening. He will speak on Policies and Ideals of the American Legion. Other speakers on the program include Marshall Graft of Appleton, commander of the Eighth district, and Frank Scheller, Neenah, commander of the Sixth district.

WATER DEPARTMENT MAY PURCHASE TRUCK

Purchase of a one and one-half ton truck for the water department probably will be allowed by the water commission at its regular meeting next Wednesday afternoon at the city hall. Other matters to be disposed of are purely routine.

ALLEN-ST STAIRWAY OPEN TO PEDESTRIANS

With the exception of a few minor details, the stairway at the foot of S. Allen-st has been completed, and pedestrians have been using it for the past few days. The structure was inspected by the board of public works Monday afternoon. All that remains to be accomplished is the construction of the wooden sidewalks. This matter will be cared for before the end of the week, it is expected.

HEALTH NURSE WORKS IN COUNTY DESPITE SNOW

County Nurse Marie Klein resumed her regular schedule of work in the county Monday morning. If roads are found impossible to automobile travel, Miss Klein would revert to train service, it was believed. The schedule for Monday, however, called for trips where it is known roads are passable.

GHOST FAILED TO APPEAR

Will an Italian ghost appear before an Englishman or are Sir Conan Doyle and Sir Oliver Lodge all wrong? These are questions put before Crompton Wood, a member of the British Parliament, who has been recuperating on the island of Ischia, Italy. He and his wife occupied a castle that was feared by the natives as being haunted. None of their servants would remain in the castle and the aged couple were left there alone. An all-night vigil failed to reveal any spirits of the departed, however.

SAYS EARTH LIKE GOLF BALL

That the earth is built on the principle of the old-fashioned metal-cored golf ball is the contention of Dr. E. D. Williamson, the scientist who has just concluded a series of investigations into the subject. The metal core of the earth, he says, is pure iron or an alloy of iron and nickel, having a thickness of not less than 4,200 miles. Outside of this is a layer of iron and rock on top of which is a strata of rock which in turn is covered by the earth's surface consisting almost entirely of granite.

NOT SO SURE!

Springfield, Mass.—A. N. Napolitan was sure that Senator Butler would be elected this fall. So, after the election, he had to walk ten blocks in the business district in the day time, clad only in his pajamas, to pay a frank bet he had made with a Democratic friend.

VESTRYMAN DENIES KNOWING HALL-MILLS KILLERS

When Ralph V. Gorsline, vestryman of the slam minister's New Brunswick church, testified for the state at the Hall-Mills trial at Somerville, N. J., he denied stating that he had recognized any of the persons he and Miss Catherine Rastall encountered in De Kusey's lane the night of the double killing. In this picture of him telling his story, Gorsline's expression is a study. Judge Frank L. Cleary (head on hand) seems intensely interested in what Gorsline is saying. Justice Charles W. Parker devotes his attention to other matters.

Japanese Want Peppery Scandal In Newspapers

Tokio.—Peppery scandal, with all the details set forth, is a choice bit of newspaper fare in Japan.

Libel laws are unenforced, and while there are regulations to protect the editorially injured citizen, these are rarely invoked owing to fear of retaliation. The love affair of a prominent member of the diet and a pretty geisha girl are considered public property and salacious philanderings frequently receive front page headlines.

FEW MAKING MONEY

With few exceptions most of the newspapers in Japan are barely making a living. It has been estimated that the publisher of a new newspaper in this country, of any real pretensions, must be prepared to lose about $1,000,000 before he can expect to show a profit. The result is that most of the journals are fly-by-night affairs, watched closely by the police and operating on a day-to-day basis. There is a strict censorship of newspapers in Japan. News articles, editorials or other writings considered inimical to the government, the public and society in general are banned. When any event occurs that the authorities think is bad for publication, a blanket order of prohibition is sent to every newspaper. Almost all the papers still are dummy editors or publishers whose job it is to be fined or imprisoned should the newspaper overstep the bounds.

TYPE SETTING BY HAND

Until recently very little foreign news, except of China, was published by the vernacular press, the reason being that the readers did not care for it. An effort is being made to educate the readers in the value of foreign dispatches, but publishers declare it is a difficult task.

All type-setting must be done by hand, about 5,000 different characters being necessary for the printing of a single edition. Consequently, the papers of Japan are much less bulky than those of America.

USE PROMOTION SCHEMES

Advertising space is smaller in proportion. No newspaper in Japan depends altogether on circulation or advertising for its revenues. They operate promotion schemes, advertising and sales agencies, selling a variety of things from automobiles to typewriters, and promoting anything from a prizefight to a new play. Many are subsidized by politicians and business interests. The price of the best dailies is about 1 1/2 cents.

Photographs and rotogravure sections, motion picture news and radio columns are popular. There are newspapers specializing on news matter and advertising of interest to women, and one features daily "children's columns."

HIGHWAY COMMITTEE MEETS TO REORGANIZE

An organization meeting of the 1926-27 highway committee for the county was to be held at the courthouse Monday afternoon. Election of a chairman for the virtually new board was to be the principal business transacted.

At the recent session of the county board only two old members of the county highway committee retained their seats.

It was expected that no other business would be brought up at this time, other than perhaps a small amount of routine connected with the new committee taking over the affairs of the old.

CAN'T DECIDE ON WHAT TO DO ABOUT MISTAKE IN TAXES

County Chairman Thinks It Can Be Fixed Up Without Board Meeting

Conference after conference followed with machinegun like rapidity at the courthouse Monday morning when the county clerk, district attorney, chairman of the county board and others met to determine whether a mistake made in the county 1927 budget could be rectified in an informal manner without putting the taxpayers to the expense of a special session of the county board.

Chairman Mike Mack, early Monday, leaned to the opinion that as the mistake was obviously a mistake and nothing more it would be possible to rectify it and later technically submit the matter to the county board, probably at the February session, for ratification.

The furor arose over the fact that two items, each for $31,600, were included on the tax levy on which collection would be started on Jan. 1, whereas only one such item should have appeared in full. The items represent retirement and interest funds on two blocks of highway bonds. On one, only the interest, $13,600, should have been included in the levy.

This brought the tax levy up to $65,000 more than actually has to be paid in 1927.

Saturday afternoon County Clerk Hantschel prepared a new levy for the county which was mailed out to clerks. Specifically this new figure would mean deducting a proportionate share of $68,000 from the taxes to be collected from each tax district. Provided the clerks had not started making up their tax rolls very little extra work or confusion would be entailed in making the deduction and then apportioning the levy to the individual taxpayer. It was pointed out at noon the matter was adjourned for further discussion until 2 o'clock.

DIRECTORS MEET

Directors of the Kiwanis club will hold a monthly meeting at 7:30 Monday evening at Frank Catlin's office in the insurance building. Routine business matters will be transacted.

TETRAZZINI TAKES A HUSBAND

Florence, Italy, was the scene of the marriage of Mme. Tetrazzini, with whose operative achievements the whole world is familiar, and Pietro Vernato, of Rome, a heretofore obscure student of music. The groom admitted that he's 32 while his famous bride maintained she is only 30.

DEER HUNTERS OFF TO BADGER WOODS

Last Week's Storm Freezes Enthusiasm of Quite a Few Nimrods

The more intrepid of the deer hunters of Outagamie-co started their northern treks by automobile early Monday in order to reach the northern counties for the opening day of the season but a large majority are going by train, it was indicated.

Charles Steidl, county motorcycle patrolman, was probably the only man in the county to try the roads with a motorcycle and sidcar attachment. Mr. Steidl intends to hunt near the Michigan state line north of Marinette, it was reported.

Several parties were disbanded on account of the storm and it is estimated that probably about 80 per cent of Outagamie-co hunters who had intended to journey north for a short stay will actually go.

A last minute rush for deer tags and delayed applications for hunting licenses was handled at the office of County Clerk John E. Hantschel on Saturday and again Monday morning.

FINANCE COMMITTEE TO MEET

A meeting of the finance committee of the common council will be held at 5 o'clock this afternoon at the city hall. Only routine business is scheduled for disposal.

Rufus C. Lowell submitted to an operation at St. Elizabeth hospital Monday morning.

CAGERS BATTLE
DE PERE TEAM IN REFORMATORY GYM

Calder's Team Opens Season Against Husky Northern Team

Menasha—Menasha high school quintet will journey to De Pere on Friday, Dec. 10, to meet the fast De Pere team in the first game of the season.

The game will be played in the gymnasium at the Wisconsin state reformatory, a mile from the city of De Pere. All basketball games of the De Pere high school are played at the reformatory to provide entertainment for the inmates.

Over 500 young men in the institution witness the games besides the spectators for De Pere and the visiting team. The reformatory orchestra furnishes added entertainment for the spectators.

Since De Pere is only a short distance, a bus is being arranged for to convey the pupils of the local high school.

URGES SPORTS FOR CHINA

That the Chinese are not taking sufficient interest in sports, is the charge made by Dr. P. K. Tyau, former Chinese Minister to Cuba, and once tennis champion of North China, who has been taking part in court contests in Pekin pending another official appointment. "Sport among the Chinese is developing, but considering the opportunities the present-day youth has, it is not progressing as satisfactorily as it should," he said in urging more contests among Pekin, Tientsin and other interior cities.

'Confederate Generals'

Atlanta, Ga., Infirmities of age have weakened the flesh but not the mind of the last two surviving generals who held commissions in the Confederate army.

Sixty-one years ago a battle-worn officer rode up to the headquarters of General Kilpatrick, a Union commander at Macon, Ga. A group of young Union army officers observed with some astonishment the figure in grey.

ROBERTSON'S LAST STAND

"It's Felix," exclaimed one. There was a rush toward the Confederate, with much handshaking and warm greetings. He was General Felix Huston Robertson.

It was the end of the Civil war. The general, having disbanded his command, had come formally to surrender, and had fallen into the hands of the conqueror West Point classmate. The comrades of school days made up a fund of $180 in gold for the enemy officer, who possessed nothing but a saddlebag full of worthless Confederate money, and with this gift sent him on his way.

McCausland Didn't Surrender

Shortly before this incident, in a Virginia camp Fitzhugh Lee dashed by, shouting "Uncle Bobby has surrendered." A Confederate leader turned to General Huston, whose command was next to his.

"Let's get out of here," he said, and they did, making their way to Lynchburg, Va., where they disbanded their forces.

The general who evaded surrender was John McCausland.

Now, the two generals are spending the closing years of their lives in the retirement of their homes, with memories of the historic past to baffle their days. General Robertson, at the age of 85, lives at Waco, Texas, and General McCausland, 90 years old, on a farm near Charleston, W. Va.

STILL UNDAUNTED BY BLUE

A few days ago in Dallas General Robertson was hobnobbing across the street when he was stopped by a traffic policeman, who told him he would have to turn back as the signal was against him.

"Young fellow," said the old one, "I never surrendered to a blue uniform, but once, and I've never turned back in the middle of the battle."

The policeman recognized a familiar face, saw the Confederate veteran's button, and let him pass.

Occasionally General Robertson dips into the modern world when he visits his son, Judge Felix D. Robertson in Dallas. He has two daughters, Mrs. Julia Cleveland of San Antonio and Mrs. John E. Smith of North Manchester, Indiana.

CONVICTED BURGLAR
FILES PLEA FOR PARDON

Neenah—An application for a pardon from William Shores of Neenah, has been filed with Governor Blaine. A hearing on the application will be held Dec. 8 at the office of the governor in Madison. Shores was arrested last February on a charge of burglarizing the warehouse of the Valley Construction company on Winneconne-ave. He is in the state prison at Waupun.

USE CHRISTMAS TREES TO DECORATE STREETS

Neenah—Wisconsin-ave and Commercial-st. have been decorated for holiday season with Christmas trees. Over 100 trees were secured by the merchants who placed them along the curb in front of their stores. Merchants say the holiday trade has started.

EX-MARINE WILLING TO WORK, HE TELLS COURT

Neenah—A jury was drawn Friday in municipal court for the trial of Joseph Drouth of Oshkosh, employed in Neenah, on a charge of non-support, but the defendant informed the court he was willing to do such work as his alleged weak physical condition will permit. The case was adjourned until Feb. 16. Drouth will be given a physical examination. He has been in court on similar charges several times in the last two years and was arrested on a bench warrant last October after he had been discharged from the United States Marines.

VIENNA JUFFLES MUSICIANS

Music is all right in its place, but that place behind closed windows, declares the Friends of Musical organization of Vienna. Nearly everyone in Vienna performs on a musical instrument and during winter weather the din of aspiring stars makes the place terrible for those who work or need peace and quiet, the Friends of Music told the police department in persuading the custodians of the law to make an order compelling people to close windows while playing or be subjected to payment of fine.

Before Texas was admitted to the Union in 1846, she had the distinction of having possessed a navy.

Lynchburg, to General John McCausland, June 18, 1864."

The date is that on which, exactly a month after he was commissioned a brigadier general to command the Jenkins cavalry, whose leader fell in battle. McCausland stopped the advance of General Hunter's Virginia raid and gave his superior, General Jubal Early, time to occupy Lynchburg and turn Hunter back.

Of Chambersburg, Pennsylvania, the general is less inclined to talk. It was at his command that the torch was set to Chambersburg, July 30, 1864, when its residents were murdered to a demand for $100,000 in gold. Letters from General Early and from President Grant, in later years, justified the general McCausland, but feeling after the war was so bitter that for two years he wandered through Canada, England, France and Mexico, virtually an exile.

SOUGHT REPRISAL FOR FIRE

For the Confederate leader the drive into Pennsylvania was a fight for his alma mater, Virginia Military Institute, where after graduating in 1837 he was assistant professor of mathematics at the outbreak of the war. The institute was partly wrecked by fire in the Hunter raid, as recompense for which the tribute was demanded of Chambersburg.

CHRISTMAS STOCKS BRIGHTEN WINDOWS AS HOLIDAY NEARS

Appleton Stores Replete With Seasonable Merchandise for Yuletide

Christmas stocks are being displayed by local merchants and each day the number of early shoppers increases, dealers have declared. Toys, sleds, skates and skis and all of the grown-up as well as the children's gift things have appeared in gaily decked windows. Stores take on a holiday atmosphere after school with the crowds of children who flock to see the toys and Santa Claus after school.

Color is an important note in the displays this season in clothes, furniture and toys. Even the building toys formerly of a drab steel shade are now brightly painted in green, red and orange. Bright lacquered furniture is the most popular of the separate pieces for gifts this year, furniture dealers said. Magazine racks, bookcases, and newspaper stands are among the articles which are especially good in the reds, blues, and greens of the new lacquered things.

For the first time since the war, small boys will receive the tin toy soldiers imported from Germany, it was found in the toy departments. Whole regiments of the small men wear the bright cadet costumes or the more somber olive drab of the army. New baby dolls for the very young children have rubber hands and heads to prevent breaking, and other dolls of plain and more elaborate designs are shown in a variety of styles that will delight little girls.

The usual articles of wearing apparel in new models and a larger selection of colors are offered and bought for Christmas use. The prevailing mode for women's scarves will reach the holiday season, stores announced, and dainty silk lingerie and gaily colored things will appear on the Christmas tree. Color too will be prominent in more elaborate designs and scarves are of more vivid shades and patterns than ever before.

For several years, Christmas greetings have been sent in great numbers, but merchants have promised a larger distribution this season, judging from the pre-season selling. Large displays have been shown for several weeks in all of the stores. Envelopes lined in bright colors will be more universal than in other years, it was said. The less expensive as well as the better cards will come in the double envelopes this Christmas time.

WOMANS CLUB WILL PRESENT PLAYLETS

Dramatic Workshop to Give Popular One-act Tabloids Monday

Two one-act plays will be included on the first public program of the Dramatic Workshop of the Appleton Women's club at the Playhouse at 8:15 Monday evening. Members of the cast were selected several weeks ago and have been working under the direction of Miss Elmer Strickland, recreation secretary at the club.

Both "Tarkington's 'Trusting Place'" and Hecht and Goodman's "Wonder Hat" will be produced by a group of Appleton girls and men. Musical selections will be given between the plays by Miss Harriet Melnich, violinist, and Miss Gertrude Lenzar, pianist.

Those who will take part in the "Trusting Place" will be: Miss Laura Schoettler, Miss Dean Chamberlin, Gordon Ratzman, Wesley Stokes, Robert Currie, and Roy Darling. The cast of the "Wonder Hat" will include: Miss Arvella Kutsch, Miss Lilian Rogers, Roy Darling, Roy Olsen, Miss Dorothy Verrier.

Members of the workshop have designed and made the costumes for the productions under the direction of Miss Strickland. The group in charge of this work constituted of Miss Carolyn Schaefer, Miss Anna Bolten, Miss Cecile Quella, and Miss Dorothy Verrier.

The workshop will give a series of performances through the winter.

LITTLE JOE

HERE ARE FOUR SIDES TO A STORY—IF FOUR PEOPLE ARE ARGUING

JEWISH FESTIVAL STARTING TUESDAY

Feast of the Benediction Lasts 8 Days; Largely Children's Event

Special observance of Chanukah, the feast of the Dedication, one of the minor holidays of the Jewish people, has been arranged at Zion temple and Moses Montefiore congregation for Sunday, Dec. 5. The younger and older children of the congregations will take part in the program which has been arranged by Mrs. L. J. Marshall.

The holiday will be celebrated for eight days, beginning Tuesday, Nov. 30. Chanukah is a home festival and has become largely a children's holiday. The events of the period from 168 to 165 B. C. are honored in this festival each year. A king of Syria, Antiochus Epiphanes, wished to unite all of the provinces of his kingdom into one nation and issued a decree that only the Greek religion was to be practiced.

The sacred scrolls of the Jewish temple were burned and idols were set up in the Holy Temple at Jerusalem. Antiochus was opposed by the Jews who opened war on the king. The Jews, defeated the Syrians. On the 25th day of the month of Kislev in 165 B. C., the idols were removed from the temple which was rededicated to God.

Candles are lit in Jewish homes during the eight days of the festival. This practice followed the legend that a single cruse of oil was sufficient to burn during the entire period of reconstruction of the Temple.

MILWAUKEE WOMAN VICTIM OF ASSAULT

Word was received here recently by George Hamilton, 603 N. Morrison-st., that his mother, Mrs. Jessie Dodd, 866 Jefferson-st., Milwaukee, was assaulted at her room by a man, believed to be John Cegiarski, 22, who struck her violently on the head several times with a milk bottle. When Mrs. Dodd failed to lose consciousness, her assailant apologized and walked out, it was said. Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton left Friday afternoon for Milwaukee where Mrs. Dodd is reported in serious condition at a hospital with a fractured skull and four broken ribs.

OIL MAN TRIES NEW VENTURE IN TIMBER

Floyd Acheson, an employee of the De Bauser Oil Co. for several years, recently purchased about 200 acres of timber land in Oconto-co and will start logging operations soon. Mr. Acheson left for the north last week to make plans for opening a lumber camp on his property.

BUILDING PERMITS

The only building permit to be issued this week was granted to John Ertel, 603 W. Richmond-st. for a frame dwelling and garage at 1115 W. Wisconsin-st. The permit was issued Saturday morning by Walter M. Zechbacher, building inspector.

Miss Strickland said, including several one-act plays and a more elaborate three-act production.

PLAYGROUND IDEA TAKING HOLD IN IN BUSINESS WAY

Decided Increase Noted in Manufacture of Outdoor Play Devices

The increase of popularity of the playground movement in America, a movement which local civic organizations are attempting to put across in Appleton, is shown in a census of manufacturers for 1925 taken by the Department of Commerce at Washington, D. C. The data collected in the census shows that establishments engaged primarily in the manufacture of toys, games and playground equipment in 1925 reported such products valued at $53,102,642, together with other products valued at $4,849,024, making a total of $57,950,666. This is an increase of 3.4 per cent as compared with $56,066,432 for 1923, the last preceding census year.

In addition, toys, games and playground equipment are manufactured to some extent as secondary products by establishments engaged primarily in other industries. The value of such commodities thus made outside the industry proper in 1923 was $2,916,394, an amount equal to 5.2 per cent of the total value of products reported for the industry as classified. The corresponding value for 1925 has not yet been calculated but will be shown in the final report of the present census.

The principal products of this industry may be enumerated as follows: Equipment, except playing cards, for games for adults, other than such athletic games as baseball, football, basketball, tennis, golf and polo; equipment for all children's games; toys of all kinds, except children's wheel goods and sleds; dolls and doll clothing; playgrounds equipment, such as carousels, swings and lawn swings.

A canal between Marseilles and the Rhone, the dream of Southern France since 1507, has at last been completed.

LITTLE CHUTE WOMAN CHAIRMAN FOR SEALS

Mrs. Carl Bell has been named manager of the 1926 Christmas seal campaign in Little Chute, according to an announcement received here today from the headquarters of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association which is directing the seal sale throughout the state. "The Christmas seal doesn't ask much of anyone," said Mrs. Bell in speaking of her appointment, "and it certainly should not have to go begging for what it does ask."

CLEANING OFF SNOW UP TO HOUSEHOLDER

Property owners are cautioned by Street Commissioner R. R. Hackworth that a city ordinance prescribes that all snow must be removed from sidewalks within 24 hours of a storm. If this is not done the city street department takes charge of the work and the cost is assessed against the land owner. Friday and Saturday city snow plows cleared the roads to city cemeteries and those streets leading to junction with main county highways.

AUTO DEATHS
According to estimates recently made up by the committee on traffic accident statistics of the National conference on Street and Highway Safety, automobile accidents have caused about 165,000 deaths in the United States in the last 20 years. This total, it may be pointed out, is larger than the number of fatalities suffered by the United States armed forces during the World war.

Since 1906 there has been a steady, progressive increase in the annual auto accident death rate. Year by year the situation gets worse. In fact, it is estimated that if the death rate for 1925 should continue unchanged for the next 20 years and if the population of the United States at the same time remained stationary, a total number of fatalities due to automobile accidents in that period would be approximately 440,000 persons, which is equivalent to the entire population of such cities as Minneapolis, New Orleans or Cincinnati.

And if the population of the United States should increase during the next 20 years at the same rate that it has increased annually since 1920, and if the auto death rate should remain the same as in 1925, then the total number of auto deaths in the next 20 years would be about 520,000 persons, a truly appalling total.

The situation, it can easily be seen, is too serious to be slighted. It is necessary that something be done about it. Wider highways, elevated crosswalks, one way streets, playgrounds, more rigid license requirements and examinations for prospective drivers, improvements in cars, are some of the steps that will have to be taken and taken soon if this situation is to be improved.

It is a matter for immediate concern and some concerted movement should be undertaken from a national standpoint to bring to a focus all suggestions for increased traffic safety.

RADIO FARM SERVICE
The use of radio to conduct educational courses for farmers on farm methods has proved to be a success, the radio service of the department of agriculture has announced. The U. S. Farm school, run by the department, is broadcasting a series of seven and one half minute lectures dealing with all phases of livestock, poultry and dairy management.

Judging from the scores of commendatory letters from representative radio listeners and thousands of actual enrollments from farmers who are tuning in on the service, it is proving to be one of the most popular features which compose the 1926-27 farm radio service.

The Farm school is giving a series of lectures dealing with all phases of farm management. Material is handled in monologue style and is supplied by specialists. Laboratory assignments necessitate putting into practice the subject matter taught. Enrolled students are furnished printed copies of radio talks, files of bulletins, and, at the end of the course, a certificate of work done.
It is hard to estimate the amount of good such a radio course will do. It affords knowledge by a novel, "painless" method and in such a manner that the subject under discussion will be listened to with interest. The net result of this effort on the part of the government is bound to be increased efficiency on the farm, increase in profits for the farmer and a general conservation of national resources.

Day after day radio is becoming more of a necessity and less of a plaything.
Once it was only a means of amusement.
Now it amuses and instructs a large part of the nation every day. Its educational possibilities are unlimited.

MILITARY TRAINING
The question of military training and of the maintenance of a standing army is one upon which there is a great division of opinion. There is a group which feels that it is necessary and desirable to teach the rudiments of military tactics to the growing boy so that he will be better able to take his place in the ranks in a national emergency. There is a group that believes this procedure all wrong, that it fosters a militaristic spirit inimical to peace.

There is a group that feels that a standing army is our best method of guaranteeing peace to ourselves and safety from aggression. There is another group that feels that there should be no army, that we should depend entirely on the good will of other nations to guarantee us protection from invasion.

The American Legion insists upon adequate national defense, some other organization declares against it—all through the land there are differences of opinion on this vital subject.

Yet how can there, at this time, be any but one conclusion? Perhaps some day in the future there will be such an atmosphere of peace that arms will not be necessary in the defense of a people or a principle. Perhaps some day the spirit of forbearance and the golden rule will so permeate the universe that such a course would be safe, but can one look abroad today and see the rest of the world in its present condition and not see that we must maintain an army and navy, and that we must be ready to defend ourselves? Can any one look at turbulent Russia, smoldering Germany, the boiling Balkans, Italy, Spain, France, Turkey, China, Chile, Mexico, and honestly say that the spirit of peace is abroad today?
The world is aflame with hate and prejudice and it would be unwise to throw our fire extinguisher away.

FRENCH RECOVERY
Under the leadership of Premier Poincare, France has been staging in the last two or three months a considerable recovery, even though this recovery is being purchased at the price of an increased nationalism that may mean no good for the peace of the world. The value of the franc has risen from fifty to thirty-two for a dollar, the vaults of the national treasury have been replenished, sterling dollars purchased abroad for the country's obligations and the way has been prepared for the government expenses of 1927.

These indications of a restoration of confidence in the franc and of apparent prosperity—all of which mean up to the present that Poincare merely set the finance administration in order and proceeded evenly with reforms—have been interpreted by the man in the street as an omen of victory over those who have plotted to dominate France economically, financially and politically.

The premier is aware, of course, that the improvement of the franc is not yet permanent and without ratification of debt agreements and eventual stabilization of the currency based upon friendly understandings with other countries and material credits from them France still faces the danger of further monetary tribulations.

BALLADS OF THE WINTER SEASON
Though some detest the ice and snow
And dread King Winter's rugged ways,
The chilling winds that bite and blow
The dreary nights and dreary days
I turn on these no timid kaze,
My blood is warm, my heart is stout!
One fault with winter though I raise,
Its dinner parties wear me out!
Right merrily to work I'll go Through winter's dreary muck and haze,
It is enough for me to know
My fireplace and its cheery blaze.
I do not mind the snow's delays
When high the drifts are blown about.
I shrink from winter's social craze
Its dinner parties wear me out!
The usual conversation flow,
Potatoes creamed or lyonnaise,
The tables where candles glow,
The awful bridge the stranger plays,
The compliments the flatterer pays, Yunk punch which I could do without;
'Tis these I dread as winter stays,
Its dinner parties wear me out!
To winter I'll sing songs of praise
My mirth its blizzards cannot rout
My one dread is the social maze,
Its dinner parties wear me out!

NOT SO CONFIDENTIAL
Referring to the assurance of secrecy which one has as a patient in the consulting room of a regular physician I said here recently: "No matter what crime a fugitive may have committed, if he consults a physician, that physician is morally bound not to betray him to the police; in fact not to divulge any information, hint or clue which may come to the physician's notice, necessarily or incidentally." In other words no one should ever hesitate to confide in his physician.
The physician is "morally bound" to absolute secrecy, I said. By that I meant that he is bound by the most sacred oath, the Hippocratic oath which is administered to every physician at the time he receives his degree, doctor of medicine. He swears among other things, to this: "Into whatever houses I enter I will go into them for the benefit of the sick, and will abstain from every voluntary act of mischief or corruption. Whatever in connection with my professional practice or not in connection with it, I see or hear in the life of men, which ought not to be spoken abroad, I WILL NOT DIVULGE, as reckoning that all such should be kept secret."
One of the chief reasons why the regular medical profession enjoys the confidence of the people today is that doctors of medicine have kept the faith throughout history. Show me a healer who betrays the confidence of a patient and I'll show you an irregular practitioner, a faddist, a forger, assuming the title of "doctor" by grace of popular credulity.
"Morally bound," I said, for in the back of my mind was an uneasy suspicion that maybe some fool law had been enacted to harass the doctor of medicine and sure enough, it is just so.
A New York attorney fears some members of the medical profession may be guided by the statement
I made unless the attention of New York state physicians is called to chapter No. 608 of the laws of 1926, amending the penal law in relation to resistance to treatment of certain wounds. This new law makes it a misdemeanor for a physician attending or treating a case of bullet wound, gun shot wound, powder burn or any other injury arising from or caused by the discharge of a gun or other firearms, to fail to report such case at once to the police authorities.
This new law was enacted, a newspaper man tells me, as a result of a notorious case in which an escaped convict was treated for gunshot wounds and the doctor never divulged the facts. The law appears to be a somewhat hysterical "outburst" of the New York state legislature—the members of which are mostly lawyers, lawyers not too firmly established in practice at home.
If the keeping of the patient's confidence is a misdemeanor then a misdemeanor is the first duty of a gentleman, and a good physician is a gentleman whose word of honor outweighs any hysterical outburst of a pinhead pettifoggish picaresque state legislature.
It will take more than such a sample of legislative hokum to make informers or stool pigeons out of medical gentlemen, I venture to prophesy. Until this momentous New York legislature repeals the Hippocratic oath, which will be some time after the paramount issue of alcoholic content will have been settled, any man, woman or child in need of medical or surgical care may confide in a doctor of medicine without fear of being betrayed to the police or anybody else.
Irregular or illegitimate healers may comply with the new penal law, but the doctor of medicine who would comply with such a law commits treason to humanity.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
No Morbid Literature
Forward to this address your treatise on bed wetting. (A. W. O.)
Answer.—Being in doubt whether the indiscriminate distribution of treatises, pamphlets or leaflets dealing with abnormal conditions is for the best interests of public health, I regret, I cannot comply with this request. If you have a child over 3 years of age who wets the bed I shall be glad to send you advice about the management of the trouble. Correspondents should bear in mind when asking for information or advice about matters of health and hygiene that this is a personal service.
Any information or advice I may give a reader who asks for it is intended for that reader personally, and I can only decline to give information or advice when the request does not indicate that the correspondent desires it for himself or his dependent. From years of experience I have learned that it is a very difficult thing to write a monograph, treatise, letter, pamphlet or what you will, dealing with any disturbance of health, without more or less morbid suggestion creeping in. For this reason I feel that I should have reasonable assurance that the correspondent himself has the trouble about which he seeks my advice. In other words, this is a strictly PERSONAL health service, as well as a private and confidential one, so far as I am concerned.

LOOKING BACKWARD
TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Monday, Dec. 2, 1901
The Rev. W. J. Fitzmaurice and E. W. Sacksteder had been appointed delegates to represent the local Foresters at the convention of the National association of Catholic societies to be held Dec. 9 at Cincinnati.
Miss Barbara McNaughton and Miss Emma Pattern returned the previous night from Washington, D. C., where they were attending school at Mount Vernon seminary. They were to spend the holidays at their homes in this city.
Word had been received here of the marriage of Miss Mayme Doyle and W. C. LaGrave of Minneapolis which took place the previous Tuesday.
The Rev. Father Phelan, assistant pastor of St.
Patrick church at Green Bay had received the appointment of assistant pastor to Rev. Fitzmaurice at St. Mary church here.
Mr. and Mrs. J. Ullman had gone to Wausau where they were to be guests of friends for a few days.
TEN YEARS AGO
Monday, Nov. 27, 1916
William Bailey, Ballard-rd., narrowly missed death the previous Saturday evening at about 5:50 o'clock when his horse became frightened at the intersection of the Northwestern tracks and Lawe-st, dashed through the crossing gates and into a freight train that was moving north.
A son was born the previous Saturday to Mr.
and Mrs. Louis Hahn of the town of Center.
Mrs. Joseph F. Grassburger, Cherry-st., was surprised the previous night by the West End Card club, the occasion being Mrs. Grassburger's birthday anniversary. Cards was played and prizes were won by Mrs. J. P. Shimok, Mrs. J. E. Grassburger, R. G. Meidam and Mrs. E. Perkins.
Miss Minnie Wendlandt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wendlandt, 933 Lawe-st, and Herman Hoepfner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hoepfner, Second-ave, were married the previous evening at Zion Lutheran parsonage.
Mr. and Mrs. Matt Maurer, Lawrence-st., celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary.
Mrs. J. C. Wolter entertained the previous Saturday for Miss Prudence Kuehnmund whose marriage to Robert K. Wolter was set for the latter part of December.

TWENTIETH CENTURY TROUBA-DOURS
There are a number of writers going up and down the country these days who have much more similarity to the troubadours of the middle ages than is usually supposed. Alfred Kreymborg, one of these troubadours, has admitted his identity with a distinct literary caste, and he has also suggested the same thing by naming his autobiography "Troubadour."
Certain members of this company of twentieth century troubadours will instantly be recognized by almost everybody, even by many who do not keep in close touch with literary trends in addition to Kreymborg there is for instance Carl Sandburg, and still better known in this capacity Yachel Lindsay.
RECITE AND PLAY
Kreymborg goes up and down the country carrying an instrument that he calls a mandolite. He rises before an audience and recites his poems with the chanting lilt that must often have been used by the old time singers as far back as Homer. And while he chants he plays his mandolite, exactly as the old times in the middle ages must have plucked the strings of their harps or whatever instrument they used.
Carl Sandburg goes from town to town all through America playing his guitar and reciting his poems. Rebecca West, in writing of Carl Sandburg, declares that it is necessary to keep his guitar in mind while reading his poems, that they cannot really be read as they should be read without the imaginary accompaniment of the guitar. And one who heard him in a southern town told me the poet did not really come alive until the guitar was placed in his hands but after that he was more alive than ten others put together.
Yachel Lindsay, whatever may be the merits or demerits of his poetry, is perhaps better known than either of the men I have mentioned in his capacity as troubadour. He has chanted his poems to millions in thousands of audiences.
He has been a literary vagabond for many years, and only recently he became a married man, so that presumably his troubadour days are over.
There are a number of others who do the kind of thing and although they have no organization they constitute a troubadour caste in twentieth century America. Neither did the troubadours of the middle ages have an organization. They were literary vagabonds who loved the freedom of life in the open, untrammelled by humdrum jobs, not tied down to a single place. They wandered from court to court and in order to live they played before courts or in the castles of the noblemen. They would away the time between battles and they were often held in high favor as entertainers. Occasionally they attained high distinction as writers.

For most of the troubadours of the middle ages it was the ironic method of publication. When they wrote poems they had to go out and recite them themselves or else no one would hear them. Before the days of printing, such people could often publish only by word of mouth and if they became popular enough their poems were sometimes copied and thus attained the dignity of written publication also.
LIKE OLD TROUBADOURS
On the face of it the twentieth century troubadours do not publish their works by traveling about with them. They publish in the magazines and between covers. But in reality this traveling about the country and peddling their poems to audiences is also a form of publication. The act of printing a book is not really publication. Publication consists in calling the book to the attention of the readers. The publisher does this through advertising and in various ways.
And these twentieth century trou-badours their books by going from town to town, from city to city and giving concerts and readings and lectures. Their real aim is to earn bread and butter like the troubadours of old,
and to win readers for their books.
The troubadours of today and the troubadours of the middle ages are not far apart in spirit and in method and in intention.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE
Hunter's Gun, Routs Beautiful Species
BY AUSTIN H. CLARK
President, American Nature Ass'n.
Partridge in our northern states,
and pheasant of the south, the ruffed grouse has always been one of our favorite game birds.
It is unfortunate in a way, that certain of our most beautiful and useful species should come to be classed, in the popular mind, primarily as birds whose chief purpose is to be hunted.
By this classification their great interest to people who would rather see them alive than dead is lost sight of. They are thought of much as are barnyard fowls in terms of utility, and that only to those who wish to kill them.
If, by virtue of a favorable season or two, they seem to be holding their own in numbers, the hunter shoots them. If they are scarce, he says that the foxes and skunks have caught them in the snow, and so he declares war on the foxes and skunks also, and keeps on shooting the birds. Presently they are almost gone.
Grouse has been on much of its former range, the fate of our ruffed grouse. Originally abundant, it was time and confiding in the early days of our settlement. On being approached it would walk or run away, or would merely fly up into a tree,

See-Sawing On Broadway
By Gilbert Swan

New York. — They say that in any postoffice, anywhere, one can find all of the hidden dramas of any town.
The secret loves, the hidden desire, the childish flirtation, the puppy love, the lonesome girl, the heart-torn mother, the suspicious husband
—all of the elements hidden from public view behind the covers of an envelope.
Now Broadway has its back-stage postoffice, and here are hidden all the comedies and tragedies of that phase of theatrical life lived when the bright lights are turned out and the grease paint has been washed off.

They are a crude series of cubby-holes, like the post boxes of the country groceries. Seldom do more than a dozen letters and cards get daily distribution. The door man, the hard-boiled guardian of all stage entrances, generally plays postman.

I was standing chatting with one of the ogres of the Broadway stage entrance the other day when three chorines came in. First they glanced at the "call board," then they walked to the postoffice.

Two of them merely glanced at the handwriting on the envelope and stuck the letters in their handbags.
The third went through the letters one by one. Three times she repeated this, then carefully put them back.
There was nothing for her!

Meanwhile the other two were chatting.
"God, it's another one from that blaw we-met Saturday."
"Not that one from the coast?"
"Yah! he thinks I ain't anything to do but get married to him. He's written three letters a day and left four phone calls at the hotel."
"He's got a nerve!"
"Nerve ain't the word."
And so it went. I asked the doorman about the one who had looked so wistfully for mail.

"Oh, she ain't been out long," he commented. "I don't know just the whole story, but she came from some tark town and it busted up the family. You know how these things go?
Family couldn't see her going on the stage. She married one of the town rubes, or somethin' and I heard someone say she had a kid, or somethin'. Anyway it didn't work and the kid's kinda low because nobody sends her any chatter on what's going on at home. One day she came in with a copy of the Weekly Bazon, or whatever the paper is, she sat down there and ate it alive. A lotta new ones are that way. She'll get over it."

That's only one. There's something like that in half the back-stage postoffices of Broadway—the news from home: the sugar papa's proposition; the mush letter from the "man in the box," the news about the "kid-she-et-behind;" the love letter from the "boy friend" in the home town;
the death of a mother, father or sister—

Whatever it is, the same thing always happens.
Slap! It goes into a handbag! Up to the dressing room and on to the make-up and the costume! Then on to the practice for the crowd!
I'll venture to say that 99 per cent of those crowds don't so much as know that there is a back-stage postoffice.

STRESS EDUCATION
IN CAMPAIGN WORK OUTLINED BY DRYS

National W. C. T. U. Contemplates Extensive Program for 1926-27

Fond du Lac — (P) — Educational campaigns to seat dry political officials will be launched by the National Women's Christian Temperance Union as a part of their program of activities,
Mrs. Ella A. Boole, national president, declared Saturday.

As a preface to this announcement she declared that the W. C. T. U. was not contemplating any political intrigue and maneuvering to secure the election of any candidate.

Features of the year's program are:
A day of prayer, Jan. 6, at which time all local unions are called upon to assemble for the purpose of earnest prayer for God's blessing on the temperance cause, upon our leaders that they may be given wisdom in meeting the strategy of our opponents, and that those charged with the responsibility for making law and enforcing it, may be given courage and wisdom to resist the temptation of great country may receive full benefit from prohibition as provided for in the Eighteenth Amendment.

All the national officers signed the call. These are: Mrs. Doole, president; Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, vice-president; Mrs. Francis P. Parks, corresponding secretary; Sara H.
Hoge, recording secretary; Nellie G.
Burger, assistant recording secretary;
Margaret C. Munns, treasurer; and Mary Harris Armour, national director of Evangelistic Work.

As a part of its nation-wide program, Jan. 16 will be celebrated as Victory Day by the W. C. T. U.

Union meetings in churches or mass meetings will be held and the suggested theme of these meetings is: "Yes, it is the law—and it's a good law."

A National W. C. T. U. conference will be held in Washington, D. C., January 25, 26, 27 with the object of demonstrating to congress and to the nation the equality, leadership and earnest purpose of the dry movement.

Addresses by members of Congress and officials, including important women executives of the government and W. C. T. U. leaders, will constitute a series of inspirational programs.

A wreath will be placed on the tomb of the unknown soldier at Arlington.

SUN ESSENTIAL TO HEALTHY CHILD

City Nurse Comments on Importance of Natural Light to Babies

"Sunlight is a most important factor in the life of a growing child, especially a baby," says Miss Florence Whipple, city nurse. Although this fact has been known for a long time,
it has not been given sufficient attention until recent years when this knowledge has become more specific, according to Miss Whipple.

"Normal growth of bone is dependent not only on the food that the child eats but also upon the direct sunlight that he receives, for the sunlight provides the body with power to utilize the food," she said. "If a baby is constantly deprived of direct sunlight his bones will not develop normally, his muscles will be flabby and his skin will be pale.

"In cold parts of the temperate zones, such as Appleton, extensive outdoor sun baths cannot be given between the middle of November and the middle of March. However, on bright winter days the baby can be put outdoors to get whatever sunlight there is. Many mothers think that in cold weather a baby may not be put outdoors not realizing in the sun the thermometer may register 40 or 50 degrees more than in the shade.

Hunters' Apathy Held Blow To Preservation

BY B. A. CLAFLIN
The old time hunters, that is, those who trod the uplands or poled the marshes when game was so plentiful that no thought was ever given to the possibility of its becoming extinct, or even scarce, should, to a man, be for any radical move tending to increase and preserve the fast diminishing supply. Their apathy is not easily understood. And a great many of them even go so far as to object to proposed suggestions offered for trial.

The younger element that has joined the rank and file of hunters during recent years has little conception of the multitudinous array of wild life that once graced our covers and marshes. To them tales of the old days savor of Munchausen. When they witness the arrival nowadays of a flight of a few hundred mudhens to our marshes, they return from the hunt with the misconception that these birds, as well as the ducks, are still plentiful and in no danger of extermination.

But the old timers, who have seen the sky literally darkened with the scurrying forms of wildfowl, know better. And yet they are loth to accept radical, and necessary changes.

They are even unwilling to declare themselves, or even to answer the call for help.

In our own immediate neighborhood in days gone by game birds were shot for the markets by the millions. I recall seeing a pile of wild ducks, containing perhaps a thousand, lying in Fox and Regan's fur store in Green Bay. These birds had been purchased from the market shooters during warm weather and allowed to spoil.
The owners of this store felt in duty bound to buy all the game birds offered them by the hunters in order to insure getting their furs later on when trapping season arrived.

While game birds were slaughtered in countless numbers almost everywhere, the magnitude of this relentless warfare, as carried on in certain localities, is unbelievable. In the "early days" wild ducks constituted the principal crop in southwestern Kansas. During the winter time duck hunting was the most paying occupation of the natives. Many operators even lived hunters to shoot for them and regular camps were established along the Arkansas River and its tributaries.

The express companies' had wagons making regular trips to the various camps where the ducks were packed in barrels and shipped east to market in carload lots. One camp had a small cannon mounted on a big scow which was poled through the lanes in the rushes. When near enough to a fair of ducks the cannon, loaded with shot, was discharged into the flock and often several hundred birds were killed at a time.

More ducks were shipped from Great Bend and Holsington in those days than from any point in the United States. That sort of slaughter, continued later in some states, was what reduced the supply in North America so that they were at a low ebb when the Federal Migratory Bird law was passed and which checked such reckless destruction.

The men who put this law through served their country well. But now we must go a step farther, and we are looking for Wisconsin to take the lead this coming winter in a movement that will spell real conservation.

SEVERAL SOLOISTS
WIN OPERA PARTS

"Bells of Barcelona" Featured by Single Numbers of High Students

Seven Appleton high school students will have solo parts in the cast of the operetta, "The Bells of Barcelona" to be given Monday evening, Dec. 6, at Fischers Appleton theatre. Carl Mc-Kee, voice instructor at Lawrence conservatory and director of music at the high school, has been in charge of both the solo and chorus work as well as the orchestra.

Mark Catlin, Jr., William Meyer,
Miss Donna Herrman, Miss Evelyn Kreiss, Miss Margaret Heckle, Robert Miller and Robert Natz will be soloists for the play. Singing and dancing choruses have been trained by Mr.
McKee and Miss Ruth McKennan, public speaking teacher at Appleton high school. A chorus of United States Marines is composed of members of the football team and of toreadors from the glue club. Twelve dancing girls were selected weeks ago, and have been practicing numbers for the production.

Accompanists for the choruses and the orchestra will be high school girls.
Miss Marie Fountain having the position for the chorus, and Miss Virginia
Baker for the orchestra.

In other years, many of the costumes for the operetta were made by the cast, but practically all will be rented from professional costumers for
"The Bells of Barcelona." Dave Miller of the Miller Costume-co of Milwaukee, will be in Appleton, before the play to fit costumes to the cast. He also will assist in the character make-up. Girls in the advanced expression class at the high school, directed by Miss McKennan, will help in the chorus make-up.

NIGHT LIFE CUSTOMERS WORKING; CLUBS CLOSE

London — (P) — Mayfair is going to bed earlier these days and as a consequence late night life in London is less popular, dancing is on the wane, and the genuine nightclub is near dying out.

Inquiries amongst the promoters of dance clubs and night clubs revealed the fact that the exclusive set, which in the late year following the war graved excitement and danced till well on into the morning, are finding some occupation in the daytime which calls for earlier bedtime.

One Must Be Either Blonde Or Brunette These Days Intermediates Must Decide Which Is Most Becoming

BY BETSY SCHUYLER
NEW YORK. — Between opera, horse shows, theater openings and football games, this week has been an uneventful one, sartorially speaking.

What I feel perfectly safe in saying is the largest single display of extreme contrasts ever shown in this country was the opening of the new Paramount Theatre on Broadway.

Standing in the marble foyer, watching Dorothy Mackaig, Hope Hampton, Lois Wilson, Lois Moran and the other motion picture stars and invited guests entering, I could easily imagine I had gone on an arctic trip and was now in the polar regions inhabited by white furred animals.

Whether it is due to the popularity of a certain play and book I know not, but it seems to me the percentage of blondes is on the increase. And between blondes and white fur is a natural affinity.

WHAT OF INTERMEDIATES?
In fact one must these days be definitely a blonde or a brunette. If blonde, one wears one's hair evenly and perfectly uncolored, and does sparsely white chignon. If brunette, one pulls back one's carefully brushed and unwaxed hair to a central meeting ground at the nape of the neck, and becomes definitely Spanish.

What is to become of the intermediate types is a matter of some concern to me, because it looks to me as if we would all have to decide which side of the fence we are on, and take a definite stand on the matter of light and darkness.

As the opening of "Turnabout" at the Metropolitan, I saw much black velvet, and what was newer, black taffeta made into most lovely robes de style. I noticed black taffeta combined with white ermine, white chignon, with pink roses, and with large ornaments of pearls and brilliants. I think it is charming after so much georgette and easily yielding materials.

Florence Walton was there in a black velvet with a severe V neckline, very deep in the back, and large pendant diamond earrings. Mrs. William Burden was lovely in white satin, embroidered in jade green strass, with a circle of jade green velvet. There, too, was the very blonde and fluffy Eleanor Ambrose in a white satin bodice and a full black skirt—and a white ermine wrap.

I saw Mrs. William Sloan Coit in a moire costume of a heavenly shade of French blue, trimmed with odd little flowers of pink strass.

PLENTY OF FRINGES
Large ovals of red beads outlined the skirt of a very stunning gown worn by Mrs. George B. St. George. The gown was of chiffon several shades lighter than the beads, and it had an absolutely unimpaired neckline.

At a most exclusive party at the night clubs, one sees the really lovely clothes—the clothes that go out to enjoy themselves. At the reopening of the Lido Venice there was a riot of high colors—and more fringe switching around than I ever saw at one gathering. Mrs. Frank C. Henderson was in gold and black lace. Mrs. Samuel Wagstaff in a classic gown of black satin. Mrs. Grand Foster in green chiffon with a full skirt and a fascinating little cape in the back, and David Tummie in gold over brown.

Even more brilliant was the assemblage at Casa Lopez, where every shade of red and flame was represented. At one table sat blonde and stately Mrs. Vincent Astor, always a delight to the eye, in blue ermine heavily beaded. Mrs. Marshall Field was in flesh-colored chiffon and Mrs. Watson Kilham in peach-colored satin, cut very low and as decidedly as a French last. Mrs. Raymond T. Baker's black and crystal gown met my entire approval, and so did Mrs. R. T. Wilson stately model of green and gold. Along with the Park avenue element, I noticed such Broadway favorites as Lowell Sherman and Pauline Garon, Marie Dressler. Every one seemed to be having a marvelous time.

NEWEST SPORTS CLOTHES
Naturally, the football games have brought out the smartest in sports attire, and besides the very nifty fur coats I have seen some very stunning cloth models of bright color, banded with fur. At the Brown-Harvard game I saw one very interesting affair of brown wool quilted in squares, narrow at the shoulders and very wide at the hem, with an enormous collar and stole of brown fox fur.

I saw Mrs. William B. Dick, formerly Mrs. John Jacob Astor, in a very stunning mink coat with a shawl collar and a very full back, looking her usual dignified self, and at the West Hills race meet I saw Mrs. Henry T. Fleitman in a very stunning leather coat tightly belted about her hips, giving her a very narrow and interesting silhouette.

Belted coats are very much in the ascendency now. Edna Brokaw, on her return from Paris, was attired in a very neat wool coat, banded with a shawl collar of ermine, and a cloth belt of the very tailored variety low over her hips. Her sister Julia wore exactly the same model.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS—
It's hard for a girl to make the best of what she's got when she hasn't anything

CURING TARDY GUESTS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

I DID NOT know who Brillat-Savarin was. It seemed that he wrote aphorisms. And this is one of his aphorisms:

"A man who keeps a good dinner waiting for tardy friends commits an outrage upon all the other guests."

A bit of investigation informs me now that he was a French author who lived in 1734 and once made a visit to America. Can it be possible that even in those good old days of stately ceremoniousness and punctuality, Betsy Schuyler Hamilton paced anxiously from her parlor window on Wall Street back to the kitchen, to tell the cook to put a little more hot water in the gravy to keep it from curdling or to take the parsley off the hot turkey platter to keep it from wilting?

Kindly notice that Monsieur Savarin chided not the tardy guest but the long suffering host. Says he, "If he isn't there on time, go right ahead."

One might go into a dissertation upon the merits of the latter plan, but it, too, has its drawbacks. For instance, suppose the dinner has reached the stage where the fillet mignon is being passed for the second time, and the peas and artichokes and potatoes. That is about the time in most dinners when food looks to the guest about as desirable as five o'clock to a tea-taster's union. And it is about the time the tardy guest usually arrives.

When the others are wondering where they are going to store their salad and dessert, down sits the belated guest, viciously attacking his horsed'oeuvre. Then on to his soup! Watching him is a most disheartening process indeed!

Guests continue to be late and hosts continue to be harried. One might mention an earlier hour but there is one drawback to this. Some of the guests would be on time.

How about never asking the tardy guest again, M. Savarin?

Household Hints
Frequent Airings
It is well to remember that the closet as well as the bedroom needs airing. Leave the door open frequently and open those windows which will ventilate it most thoroughly.

CONVENIENT
Keep a supply of plain white blotters in the buffet drawer and use them when any liquid is spilled on the tablecloth. They have amazing powers of absorption.

KEEP IT SHINY
Go over the gas stove occasionally with an oiled cloth to prevent rust.

LONG HANDLES
Sweeping is much less back-breaking if you have one of the new dustpans with long handle which does not require bending to use it.

SAVE THE CARPETS
Your floor rugs should be cleaned thoroughly at frequent intervals to prevent moths. Pay particular attention to seams which are excellent breeding places for these obnoxious pests.

Breakfast — Grapes, cereal, thin cream, crisp broiled bacon, waffles, milk syrup, coffee.

LUNCHEON — Cream of potato soup with cheese, croutons, olive and nut sandwiches. Roasting island, molasses cookies, milk tea.

DINNER — Scalloped potatoes and ham tomato, jelly bread, steamed pudding with vanilla sauce whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

Dual amounts of ripe olives and nuts are finely minced, combined with salad dressing to make moist and put it between crisp lettuce and thin slices of Graham bread and butter.

SCALLOPED POTATOES AND HAM
One slice ham cut 1-2 inches thick, three or four potatoes, three or four medium sized onions, salt, pepper, sugar, melted butter.

Trim and from ham and let stand in cold water to cover for two hours. Choose a deep baking dish and fill with alternate layers of thinly sliced potatoes and onions. Season each layer with butter and a tiny bit of salt. Pour in milk to barely cover vegetables. Do not trim fat from ham. Put ham on top of potatoes and onions and sprinkle sugar and melted butter over it. Bake in a hot oven.

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

"I see that you tumble," Cherry's crisp, sarcastic voice answered the previous question in Faith's eyes. "Your little blue-eyed boy friend Bob Hathaway, in person!"

Faith shielded her eyes with a trembling hand. Oh, it couldn't be Bob who would stoop so low as to blackmail a girl! Not Bob—her Bob!

"You look pretty sick, Faith. Can't I get you a drink of water or something?" Bill Warren's voice came to her dimly through the waves of nausea that poured over her.

"No," she shook her head. "Go on, Cherry. What else? How did you happen to see so much?"

"I wish I hadn't told you a word," Cherry whimpered, cowering against Bill Warren like a child seeking comfort. "As I was telling you, Chris and I danced, until I was so hot that I begged him to take me out on the veranda. We noticed as we passed by our table to get my handbag that I had some flattery, the sleuth, had disappeared. Well, we went out on the veranda, and stood leaning against one of those rough log posts—not talking, just—just looking at the moon."

She flushed under the gaze of Faith's accusing, pain-filled brown eyes. Faith had a picture of that scene as it must have been enacted.

"Yes?" she whispered, as Cherry panted.

"Well, then someone bumped his head right under our feet. You know the veranda there is not quite high enough from the ground for a man to stand up under it. We heard someone say 'damn' and I recognized Bob Hathaway's voice instantly. So did Chris. We kept real still for a minute, then Chris vaulted over the banister and dropped to the ground. It isn't enclosed under the veranda, you know, and he saw Bob and this Handsome Harry talking together. The sleuth was giving him a piece of paper."

"When Bob saw Chris he pocketed the scrap of paper and said, 'Hello, Wiley!' as cool as a cucumber. Chris answered him, and then came back up on the veranda by way of the steps. We beat it then, and by the time we got a quarter of a mile from the cabin, Handsome Harry's driver was rattling along behind us."

"When did you join Bill?" Faith asked in a flat, dull voice.

"Oh, don't spoil this story by beating me to my climax," Cherry laughed. "Like a little fool, I'd told Chris all about the anonymous letters, and he got it into his head that the only thing for us to do was to elope tonight. He still got that marriage license parked in his vest pocket—"

"Marriage license?" Faith echoed, staring at Cherry in bewilderment.

"Oh, sure, he took out a marriage license about two months ago, when he was in the license bureau, who promised Chris not to record it until he gave the word. He's always flashing it on me, like he did tonight. He can't get it through his head that I'm going to marry Mr. Chumy, and—well, he tried the same old stunt again. Tried to abduct me. Stepped on the gas and lost Handsome Harry in about two minutes, then burnt up the road toward Marlboro. Imagine it! Me trying to grab the wheel away from him, and selling my head off, not when any one else was to do so, you understand, but just to scare him and make him behave. If he hadn't turned the car over on that hairpin curve—"

"Turned the car over?" Faith gasped. "Oh, darling, were you hurt?"

"Gee, you're a riot, Faith! A wow!" Cherry chuckled. "Neither of us was hurt a bit, but you ought to see the car! I jumped and Chris slid to the bottom of the car but from under the steering wheel. When I heard him scrambling out and swearing, I knew he wasn't hurt a bit, and I began to run down the road. I looked back over my shoulder, just to make sure, you know, and there was Chris, walking around and around the car, and I staggered on with the one big idea—to get away from them and get home."

"Then I came along," Bill Warren grinned at Faith reassuringly. "I'd been over to the Marlboro Country club to a dinner dance, and as the girl lives in Marlboro, I was driving home alone. I thought I must be bourgeois or something when my headlights picked up Cherry, running like a two-year-old in a steeplechase. It was one time the infant was glad to see old Bill, huh?" His hand ruffled Cherry's short, red-gold curls with affectionate familiarity.

"You said a mouthful!" Cherry tweaked his nose impudently. "And so we are here. Now, I ask you—Isn't that a hot story? But what do you think of Bob, Faith? It does prove something, doesn't it?—his pow-wow-wowing with the sleuth under the veranda, I mean? Aw, honey," her voice was suddenly warmly sweet and contrite. "I wish I hadn't told you, but I thought you ought to know. You look as if you'd been sick a month. Honestly! He's not worth it, darling. Don't waste any more sleep over him."

"All right, then," Faith smiled wanly. "I'll go to bed, and stop wasting sleep right now. Thank you, Bill, for bringing Cherry home. It will make it much easier for Cherry as far as Dad's concerned. Good night."

In bed, however, Faith found that she could not obey Cherry's susterly advice to waste no more sleep over Bob Hathaway. The letters had undoubtedly come out of his office, written either by him or his stenographer. His stenographer! Why hadn't she thought of that before? She sat up in bed, resting her tired head on her knees and staring into the darkness. His stenographer had done it without his knowledge, paid to blackmail Cherry into jilting old man Chumy by some unscrupulous member of the Chumy family. Of course! She began to sob with relief. But—how had a stenographer known so much about Cherry? And why had Bob Hathaway met the "sleuth" clandestinely?

At last she did go to sleep, but only after she had determined to face Bob Hathaway with the damning evidence against him which Cherry had accumulated. (Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.)

TOMORROW: Faith calls at Bob Hathaway's office and finds new evidence against him.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

A T last with just one apple more that must be hoisted from the floor, wee Clowny said, "Oh, let me pull this last one to the chute. Just how it's done I understand." And then he took the string in hand and started pulling slow, but sure, to hoist the shiny fruit.

"Hout half way up the long string broke. Now please don't laugh. It was no joke. The apple fell directly toward the place where Clowny stood. The other Tinites dashed about, and loudly shouted, 'He! Look out!'"

And Clowny tried to dodge it just as quickly as he could.

But 'twas no use. Alas, alack, the fallen apple grazed his back. It seemed that all the rest could do was simply stand and stare. "Course Clowny" flopped upon the floor. I guess that he was hurt much more than they all thought. Then Scouty said, "Stand back, and give him air."

Now, Clowny, was near scared to death. At least, he couldn't catch his breath. "My goodness, he has fainted. Get some water," Scouty cried. "Course Scouty knew just what to do. He was a Boy Scout, tried and true. When someone brought the water, he knelt down by Clowny's side.

It wasn't long 'till several sips had passed between poor Clowny's lips. The water quite refreshed him, and he opened up his eyes. "Where am I? Goodness me, oh, my. I thought that I was going to die. The apple that just fell on me was several times my size."

The Tinites all feel real glad to find he wasn't hurt so bad. As Clowny rose, he calmly said, "That's where my hoisting ceases." But, shucks, the hoisting job was through, and now there was no more to do. The apple that had tumbled down was squashed to little pieces.

POPULAR SHADES
Among the new pastel shades are queen blue, parade green and Goya red, and new variations of the beige and rose tones.

CHIC GOWNS
A French disposition has a bodice of white chiffon embroidered in sequins, and a skirt of tired white ostrich fringe.

PARISIAN STYLE
The tailor that Paris is interested in now is developed in pastel wools and is trimmed with incrustations of its own material.

TULLE DANCE FROCKS
Tulle is considerably in evidence, often for ruffled dance frocks where the edges are piped with gold or silver thread, or sprinkled with sparkling sequins or rhinestones.

MOLESKIN AND VELVET
Moleskin waistcoats are amusing styles, and are most frequently coupled with velvet suits or those of very elegant wool.

ON NEGLIGES
Flowers in organdie and georgette crepe in pastel colors are used on lingerie and negliges.

PINK KID GLOVES
Gloves for evening wear, created by a famous French glove-maker are of pink kid bound with fur dyed a little darker than the kid.

No Engine Fumes in Buick closed cars

In the 1927 Buick, the new Vacuum Ventilator pulls engine fumes and gases from the crankcase and ejects them outside the car.

This vital new Buick improvement does away with noxious odors. It adds greater luxury and pleasure to enclosed car operation.

The Vacuum Ventilator serves another very important purpose. It prevents crankcase vapors from condensing and diluting the oil. Owners of 1927 Buicks are advised to drain their crankcase oil only 4 times during the year.

For luxury, and for economy, own a Buick.

C. E. Club To Present Yule Play

A Christmas pantomime, "At the Door of the Inn," by Martha Rice, will be presented on Wednesday, Dec. 15 by the Christian Endeavor society of First Congregational church. The first rehearsal will be held at 7:30 Tuesday night at the church.

The cast of characters which was chosen by a committee consisting of Kathleen McKenzie, chairman, Ramona Fox, Charlotte DeVoe and Ruth Dawes, was announced at the regular meeting of the society Sunday evening. MASONS HONOR MEMORIES OF DEAD BROTHERS

Memories of five former members of Waverly Lodge, No. 51, Free and Accepted Masons, were eulogized by 150 local Masons at the annual Lodge of Sorrow held Sunday afternoon at the Masonic Temple. Those honored were members of the lodge who died in the past year. They were Charles S. Dickinson, Dr. M. J. Sandborn, Dr. B. S. Mitchell, Albert C. Simpson and Dr. Emmanuel E. Greichter. Officers of lodge, led by William Rocks, worshipful master, had charge of the services. Prayers were given by Dr. Virgil B. Scott, chaplain. Songs by the Masonic quartet, composed of George C. Nixon, Carl J. Waterman, Carl McKee and William Johnson, and a violin solo, Trauer, by Percy Fullinwider, formed the musical program.

In his memorial address, the Rev. H. S. Gately of All Saints Episcopal church, eulogized the dead, telling how each brought renown to Appleton. He eulogized Dr. Sandborn for bringing national prominence to Appleton by his X-ray work and as president of the national radiological society. In a similar manner he praised Dr. Mitchell's work in the field of medicine, Dr. Greichter's prominence in educational fields, Mr. Dickinson's fame as a banker and Mr. Simpson's sacrifices for his country in the Civil war, especially at Gettysburg. Mr. Simpson died at the Wisconsin Veterans home.

TO IMPROVE CHURCH MUSIC

A movement has been started to raise the standard of music in the Church of England to a higher degree of purity and simplicity. Speaking on the subject recently, Bishop West-Watson said: "Some of our hymns are weak and uninspiring, and 'Jesus Lover of My Soul' which was popular with the English troops, could be taken as an example. It was found that the theme was almost too personal to be sung about in public." The Bishop added that the hymn sung to another tune had a different force and meaning and that some other hymns had weak words and worthy tunes.

CHAMPAGNE IN FRANCE IS SOARING IN PRICE

Paris—(AP)—Champagne of the 1926 vintage will be the most expensive in the history of France's sparkling wine. The quality, flavor and bouquet of the wine, however, will be on a par with its price, say wine agents who are visiting the trade. They have been warning their customers to stock up as the "price is likely to double within the next year."

Already there has been a big increase. Fifteen francs per bottle was paid last year for A 1 Extra Dry in baskets of 25 bottles. Today the same wine is being quoted at 25 francs.

The fundamental cause of the increase is in the grapes. The best marks are being sold at Rheims for forty francs per bottle. They cost 2.50 francs last year.

Although with the coming of the rainy season boats have been relieving the freight congestion that has

WHICH WOULD YOU CHOOSE?

If some good fairy should appear, as they did in the old fairy tales and offer to grant your heart's desire, what would you choose?
Wealth? It's a transient thing that brings its own cares.
Happiness? It's an elusive thing which we keep by giving away.
Health? That's the best gift. Health is riches that gold cannot buy, and surely health is cause enough for happiness.

Women Find

Great comfort in this new hygienic pad that discards easily as tissue—no laundry

ON many important counts, women are desiring the old-time "sanitary pad."

There is a new way. A way that multiplies protection. A way, too, that solves the old problem and embarrassment of disposal.

It is called "KOTEX." Ends the insecurity of the old-time sanitary pad. Five times as absorbent! And deodorizes—ends ALL fear of offending.

As easily disposed of as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You get it at any drug or department store simply by saying "KOTEX." You ask for it without hesitation.

Costs only a few cents. Eight in 10 better-class women employ it. Proves old ways an unnecessary risk.

HOCKEY PLAYERS TO ENTER VALLEY LOOP

Will Plan Games on Moose Rink in Kaukauna Ball Park

Kaukauna—Plans are being made to enter a hockey team from this city in the Fox River Valley hockey league, according to Carl Runte, a member of last year's team. A meeting was held at Appletton to decide upon a schedule for the year and to make rules necessary for the organization. The local team will use the proposed rink on Kaukauna ball park for its matches. A small admission will be charged at the game to help defray the expenses of the team, according to Mr. Runte. Players from Kaukauna who will attend the Appletton meeting are Carl Runte, Otto Funtz, Gerard Brenzel, Russell Brenzel and Sylvester Dix.

The local Moose lodge is planning to build an ice rink at Kaukauna ball park this year for use of the public. The newly organized Moose band will present band concerts three or four times at the park. Norman Gerhart is chairman of the committee in charge of the proposed skating rink. Work will be started in a week or so on the rink.

College Ave. Lady Now Making Up For Many Meals Missed In Past

Popular matron declares everything tastes good to her since Dreco ended suffering with stomach.

Since the new herbal remedy Dreco was introduced here recently never a day passes but that someone calls on the Dreco Expert at Schlitz Bros. Drug Store and tells of the wonderful amount of good they have received.

Mrs. Jane Groff, 73 years old, who runs a busy confectionary store at 627 West College-Avenue, Appletton, Wis., says:

"For fifteen years I have suffered agonies. I've been so rundown and the medicines I took proved so ineffective, I refused to listen anymore to friends' advice when they recommended this medicine or that medicine. But when the Dreco man came to town and I learned that this new remedy was made from the juices of the good old-fashioned plants, roots and herbs, I thought that here at last was a medicine which might help me so I started taking it.

"At the time I was in misery with stomach and liver complaints. I had no appetite at all, yet the little I ate caused me to suffer intensely with gassy pains in my stomach and around my heart. My heart used to jump and flutter so I thought I had heart trouble. Sour acids used to come up in my throat, I was short of breath and even a crust of bread would make me deathly sick. I was also subject to constipation, headaches and dizzy spells and grew nervous and weak.

"But since taking Dreco I feel like God has given me a new body. It's now a pleasure to work around the store and I enjoy doing the marketing, for whenever I see anything that tempts me, I know I can buy it and take it home and eat it without fear of suffering in any way with my stomach afterward. I now have a good appetite and am making up, for the many meals I missed in the past. Besides correcting my stomach troubles, Dreco also put an end to the dizzy spells, regulated my bowels, relieved my headaches, quieted my nerves, and, in fact, made me feel as healthy as a young girl."

Mr. H. W. C. Marr Baker, the well-known Expert from the Dreco Laboratories now at Schlitz Bros. Downtown Drug Store, is telling scores of people every day how to take Dreco for best results. Go to see him.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

JUDITH MARTIN, youngest member of the Pendleton University faculty, gets into the hot grasses of DEAN TIMOTHY BROWN because she accepts the attention of ERIC WATERS, rebel senior.

DR. PETER DORN, astronomy professor, also admires Judith and tries to persuade her to conciliate the dean. MYRA ALDRICH, in love with Eric is jealous of Judith.

Eric is suspected of bootlegging poison liquor, from which two students die. Mrs. Timothy Brown is grateful to Judith for not gossiping after she sees Mrs. Brown with a man companion in a Middleburg hotel.

"KIDNEY" SHEA, a town bootlegger with whom Eric is supposed to have had dealings, overhears a conversation between Mrs. Brown and Judith in a tea shop, and blackmails Mrs. Brown. Judith goes to Eric for help.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXV
Eric's gaze faltered under Judith's eyes, but he stubbornly kept silence. They stood facing each other in the dark road.

Judith began to laugh. "THE other man?" When did you get the idea that you had only one rival?"

In spite of himself, Eric was stirred by her raillery. But he answered sullenly. "When you say that Shea is trying to blackmail you and somebody else, that means just one, doesn't it?" He raised his eyes to her face. "What have you done, Judith?"

"If I didn't need you so badly, I'd walk away from you and your child."

"You can't expect a jealous man to behave like a man of stone," said Eric.

"First of all," said Judith, "the other person in the mess isn't a man at all, but a woman. I'm not privileged to tell her secrets. But you already know about the thing that Shea is holding over me."

Eric started. "What on earth?"

"The Blue Moon raid, and nothing else," replied Judith, and waited as the surprise rose in his eyes.

"But how did he know about it?" gasped Eric.

"I've been thinking," answered Judith. "Do you remember my saying that somebody was looking through the window, when we went down the corridor that night?"

"Yes," cried Eric. "That must have been Shea. We passed him on the day just before."

Judith looked at him. "Just what, if I may ask, is—or was—your connection with Shea?"

Eric spoke easily, without shifting his eyes. "That's simple. I buy whiskey from him—or did, before the poison deaths. That's all."

Judith went up to him and put her hand on his arm. "I'm glad that's all," she said softly. "But I want you to tell me what to do."

He raised his head. "I'll take care of this business," he said.

"But what can you do?" asked Judith. "Have you any influence over Shea?"

Eric laughed. "Well, not exactly a mother's influence. But I fancy I could make it rather hot for him if I chose to squeal. I'll have a talk with him."

"But he knows that if you squeal on him, you also ruin yourself. The discipline board is just waiting for an excuse to expel you."

"That's true," said Eric. "But perhaps I can bluff him."

Judith was silent a moment. "And if you can't what then? I tell you this other woman's case is far more desperate than mine. I don't particularly care what they do to me, so long as I have a clear conscience. But she—well, it means the breaking up of a home."

Eric smiled. "You're talking about Mrs. Timothy Brown. I have seen you with her. She's confided in you."

"I can't tell you anything," answered Judith. "But you must do what you can. Make Shea think you know the whole story."

"If I can save that unfortunate woman from a dilemma and help her deceive Timothy, that's a double reason for butting in. Of course I'll do it."

"What if you can't bluff him?" persisted Judith.

Eric's mouth was set. "Don't ask. I'll fix him all right. I'll fix Shea."

Judith put her hand on his arm again. "Don't do anything foolish," she said very gravely. "He shrugged."

A few days later, during the week before the Christmas holidays, Judith received a letter bearing a Chicago postmark. She tore it open as she went up the stairs. It was from the aunt with whom she had intended to spend the Christmas vacation.

"Dear Judith," the note began, "I am dreadfully sorry to disappoint you—I know how dreary Christmas is in a college town—but Junior is in bed with scarlatina, and the house is quarantined. His case is not serious, but the doctor thinks it highly inadvisable."

Judith trailed up the stairs. As she laid her books down on the table and picked up the letter again, Myra bounced into the room. She was carrying a sumptuous coat of ermine over her arm.

"Look-ee!" she shouted boisterously, holding it at arm's length. "My Dad sent this to me, as a Christmas present, ahead of time. He thought I'd like to have it for the trip home."

"I should think anybody would like to have it for any occasion whatever," Myra replied, pleasantly. "It's a gorgeous thing."

Myra slipped on over her negligee and ran to the mirror. "A little bit prima donna-ish for one so young," she commented, looking critically at her reflection, "but not to be spurned, oh dear no."

"Spurred?" repeated Judith. "Really, Myra, you're getting worse and worse spoiled, all the time."

Myra giggled. "It's lots of fun, being spoiled." Then, with a dash of insight, "I guess it isn't so much fun for the people around you, though." She turned back to the glass.

"Dad bought this for himself. Mother's in Bermuda. If she'd been there, she'd have picked out a nice girlish gray squirrel, for about half the price."

Judith smiled. "Yes, if there are any dates left in town."

Myra jumped up and down on the bed. "Will you do it? The girls will be tickled to death. You can have the chapter president's room—the cutest place. Every president since the house was built has left something in the room, and it's got lamps and pictures and an inlaid Louis Quinze dressing table that an oil man's daughter bought to splurge over the rest of them."

Judith considered. "Yes, I think I will, Myra."

"Fine! I'll sneak down in my negligee and call up the house, to tell 'em."

The doorbell rang below, and Myra ran into her room instead. "Have to put on my dress now," she said. "Can't sneak down undressed."

Nobody answered the ring. It came again and again. Judith left her room and went down the steps. The shadow of a man loomed beyond the glass panel of the door. She ran to open it, and Dr. Dorn stood before her.

"How do you do, Miss Martin, I came especially to—"

"Ill, there," whooped Myra, flying down the stairs. "Dr. Dorn! So glad to see you. I thought perhaps you'd drop round, to tell me whether we can telescope the moon tonight."

The sorority house is not so inviting to Judith as it had sounded, as she learned when she returned from a drive to find it deserted and dark.

FRENCH PLAN TO SHOW MOVIE ABOUT NAPOLEON

Paris (AP)—Napoleon, the first and greatest one, will have the honors of the Paris Opera when the most pretentious French film to date, dealing with the career of "The Man of Destiny," will be shown at that famous playhouse.

"Napoleon" cost 12,000,000 francs to make and no less than 4,000 French soldiers and sailors now on active service took part in the film. The scene of the big review, with the "Little Corporal" passing before his army on horseback, based on the famous painting by Meissonier, is said to be one of the most impressive features of the production.

For one of the episodes of "Napoleon," the port of Toulon was literally set back over a hundred years in history in order that the famous siege might be recreated.

In the cold desert in Kashgar there are no reptiles, not even a fly.

David Lewis has been a farm hand on one British estate for 65 years, and has been awarded the Banbury Agricultural association's long service medal.

"Brighter" burials have been determined upon by the British Undertakers' Woodwork Association. New casket designs are beautiful and graceful workmanship.

Visa fees will be waived for members of the American Legion visiting England next year.

Each record plays 24 minutes (12 minutes to a side), and 12-inch records 40 minutes (20 minutes to a side). Eight times as much music in one New Edison 40 Minute Record as in the ordinary short playing record. Reduces the cost of phonograph music more than half.

Played only on the New Edison Long Playing Phonograph. Demonstrations going on all day, every day. These informal concerts are absolutely free. Come in soon.

Cod Liver Oil in Sugar Coated Tablets Puts on Flesh and Builds Them Up

—In just a few days—quicker than you ever dreamed of—these wonderful health building, flesh making tablets called McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets will start to help any thin, underweight little one.

After sickness and where rickets are suspected they are especially valuable. No need to give them any more nasty Cod Liver Oil—these tablets are made to take the place of that good, but evil smelling, stomach upsetting medicine and they surely do it.

A very sick child, age 9, gained 12 pounds in 7 months.

Ask Schlitz Bros. or any druggist for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—as easy to take as candy—60 tablets, 60 cents, and money back if not satisfied.

there is no substitute for quality and it costs no more

It's a mighty simple matter to determine the quality of most everything we buy for personal use. In the matter of clothes, the acid test comes in the way they fit, the manner in which they retain their appearance, their color, and how long they wear. Sifting down to cases on food products it's a matter of taste, genuine nutrition and after effects.

When a merchant sells you a so-called bargain, something "just as good" as you have been in the habit of paying more money for—and it doesn't stand up—you'll get back to quality again. When you're used to paying 60c a pound for good coffee and you are induced to buy something "equally as good" for less money—and your morning cup of coffee makes you feel out-of-sorts all day, you hop right back on the old quality brand at once.

When you buy nondescript brands of gasoline and oil for your car—it's up to your motor to sense the difference in quality—and the reaction comes back to you in loss of power, decreased mileage, an inefficient motor and finally, expensive repair bills.

GOVERNOR WANTS 2-DAY HEARING ON EXTRADITION PLEA

Washington Executive Hesitates to Release Suspects for Trial

According to word received Monday from Governor Roland Hartley, state of Washington, action may be expected soon on the extradition hearing for three men sought by Outagamie-co to face charges of violation of the blue sky laws and for procuring money under false pretenses in the sale of approximately $500,000 worth of alleged valueless stock in the Fox River valley and Milwaukee.

District Attorney John A. Lonsdorf said that the attorney general's office of Wisconsin has become interested in the fight and that it is possible that Joseph Messerschmidt, of that office, will journey to Olympia to present the case for Wisconsin.

An attempt on the part of Outagamie-co authorities to bring back the trial failed in September and counsel was sought from the attorney general. Papers for extradition and warrants were issued by Governor John J. Blaine, and approved, but when they were presented in Washington, they were refused to honor them when John Penber, Louis Williams and Frazier Lantz are the men sought. It is alleged that stock was sold in a dubious coal mine.

The proposal from the Washington governor, Mr. Lonsdorf pointed out, would set a precedent in extradition hearings as Gov. Hartley requests that arrangements be made for Wisconsin to conduct a 2-day hearing before him which, Mr. Lonsdorf believes, would amount to virtually a trial of the entire case with the governor sitting as judge. The latter will be referred to the attorney general's office with a view to setting a date for hearing, it was stated.

EFFORT TO "MAKE" OLAF CHOIR HURTS GRIDIRON

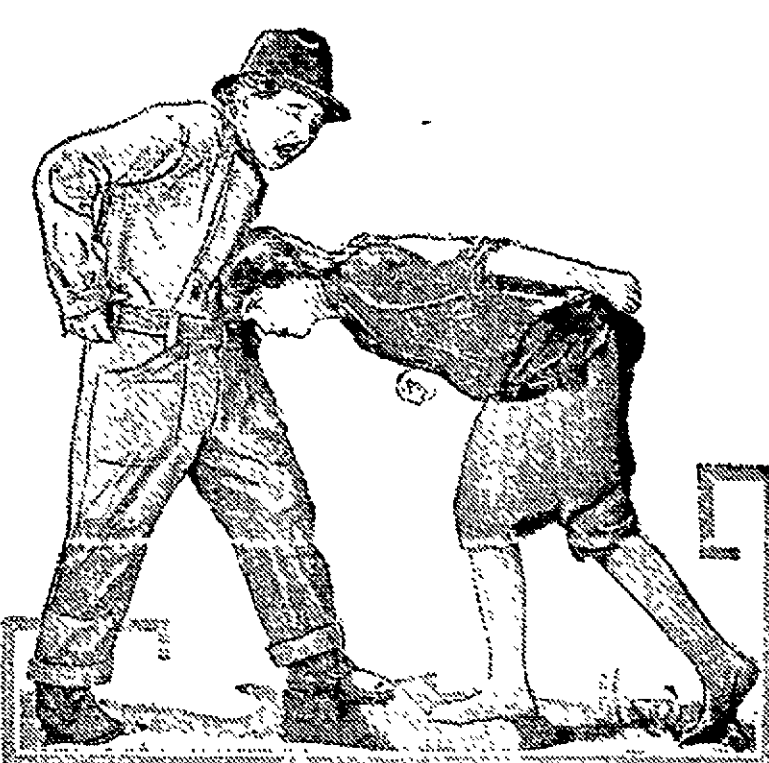

Northfield, Minn.—(P)—Ability to "make" the famous St. Olaf college choir ranks prowess at football or baseball and many promising gridiron stars have been lost through the choir's appeal.

The St. Olaf choir, under direction of Dr. E. Mellus Christensen, is the college's outstanding institution. From the student body 60 voices are chosen while constantly there is in training a second choir as a "feeder" for the first.

Five or six times a week the choir drills, primarily in preparation for the annual spring tour, which this year will take the group to eastern cities. Last year they visited the Pacific coast.

SLEUTH LICENSE UP TO ZIMMERMAN

Ekern Tells Secretary of State Permit Issuance Depends on Him

Madison—(P)—Replying to an opinion sought by Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman, regarding the renewal of a license for the Howard W. Russell detective agency at Milwaukee, Attorney General Herman L. Ekern today declared that the matter, being already fixed by laws, should be settled by a decision of the secretary of state after "full inquiry and investigation."

In asking Mr. Ekern for an opinion, the secretary of state set out the circumstances surrounding the issuance of the first license in 1925 and the ensuing criticism by the fire and police commission of Milwaukee.

"This applicant," Mr. Ekern said, "has twice appealed to the supreme court of Wisconsin in an attempt to secure a license without the endorsement of the Fire and Police Commission of the City of Milwaukee but this court denied its contentions."

"It is a matter of public record that the Fire and Police Commission of the City of Milwaukee where this agency had been conducted for years, after extended public hearings refused to endorse its good character, competency, and integrity. In view of the statements in your letter of Oct. 27, 1925, and of this record and of the controversies by the applicant with the legislature and state department, it is clear that the issuance of a license cannot be justified without the fullest inquiry and investigation. This duty is placed by the statute on the secretary of state."

MAIL COURSE OPENS IN INCOME TAX LAW

Madison — A new correspondence course teaching how to make income tax returns is announced Monday by the University of Wisconsin Extension division. The new course is a revision in the light of the recently issued Regulation 60 of the United States Treasury department of the 16-lesson course formerly supplied by the Extension division.

The new course consists of 375 printed pages giving the text of the income tax law, a digest, specimen returns, and questions; 11 pages answering the questions; and 100 mimeographed pages suggesting methods of study.

Among the perplexing problems of the income taxpayer which are solved in the new course are: profits on installment sales, uncompleted transactions, piecemeal accounting, stock rights, gain and loss, exempt transactions, capital gains, deductions, and corporate accumulations.

NEARBY COUNTIES KEEP ROADS OPEN, TRAVELERS SAY

Outagamie-co Highways Poor Compared With Other Communities

"Outagamie-co roads are a disgrace in comparison to roads in surrounding counties," was the consensus of opinion expressed by automobile owners arriving in Appleton on Saturday Sunday and Monday morning.

"Highway 47 is a 'snake trail' and a dangerous one, too," one irate traveling salesman declared who had bucked a considerable amount of drifted snow.

District Attorney John A. Lonsdorf, who had visited Athens, Marathon-co, said that Shawano-co, and Marathon-co roads were cleared but that he experienced great difficulty from the time he crossed the county line into Appleton on his return journey. The trip was made in 7 hours, a distance of 130 miles.

Bus company plows were working on state trunk highway 15 Saturday and Sunday and county owned plows were out Saturday on Highway 18.

Highway Commissioner A. G. Brusewitz pointed out Saturday that the county has appropriated less than $5,000 for snow removal and specified that this sum is to be expended only on road between the county asylum and Kaukauna. The county, he declares, thus is allowed no latitude in expending funds on other highways.

STAGE And SCREEN

FORREST STANLEY HAS UNIQUE ROLE IN COLUMBIA FILM

Forrest Stanley, popular young screen star, has his first role as a husband, even though a young one, Columbia's latest Waldorf series release is "When Husbands Flirt," which comes to the New Bijou today and Tuesday.

Mr. Stanley has played the heroic lover countless times on the screen.

But he has never played the sort of part he has in this feature—the young husband made an innocent victim of circumstance.

But this doesn't mean that Mr. Stanley's well known ability as a young lover isn't utilized in "When Husbands Flirt." He is kept very busy indeed trying to soothe the lovely and suspicious star, Dorothy Revier.

"It isn't so easy in acting the part of a husband," said Mr. Stanley, "when one has had very little experience with that sort of thing. But it's very easy opposite Miss Revier, who to my mind and to everyone else I know is just about the ideal of the 'better-half' of life."

Others in the picture are Tom Ricketts, Ethel Wales, Maude Wayne, Frank Weed and Irwin Connolly.

FUN AND DRAMA IN MARY PICKFORD FILM "Sparrows" Bids Fair to Achieve Splendid Popularity of "Little Annie Rooney"

Following closely on the heels of the popular "Little Annie Rooney," Mary Pickford's newest photoplay "Sparrows" at the Elite 4 days starting today under a United Artists Corporation release, bids fair to duplicate "Little Annie's" success. It is brimful of comedy and human interest that is bound to please those fans who did not care for "Our Mary" in pretentious costume dramas.

This role offers Mary Pickford one of the most sympathetic of her career, for it gives her an opportunity to be all of her most charming selves. She is adorable as the impish little hoyden, amusing the children by her merry pranks, and equally appealing as the tender little mother. In rags and tatters "The World's Sweetheart" is irresistible and she forsakes them only briefly at the end of the picture where everything ends happily, of course.

BEERY-HATTON'S BAG O' TRICKS!

If the laughter which rocked the Fischer's Appleton Theatre this afternoon may be taken as evidence, the knockout landed during the opening sequence of "We're in the Navy"

Now," spells the audiences, final verdict.

The whole gamut of the United States Navy's comical side is traversed in this superb Paramount feature. "We're in the Navy Now" sweeps over the ardent arena with a rush of laughter and settles down to consistently exhilarating clean comedy in fun-infested scenes aboard and army transport bound for France.

As a pair of "goofy" gobs, the two stars—Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton, zig-zag through the Navy's intimate life in riotously funny fashion. The company includes Chester Conklin, as a transport captain; Tom Kennedy in the role of a petty officer; Lorraine Eaton, the heroine; and Donald Keith, radio operator.

As a comedy cast that coterie of artists is mighty hard to beat.

"We're in the Navy Now" hasn't missed a single laugh situation. It lands with a punch that will delight every ex-service man. It is just as truthfully funny about the Navy as trenches and — it's even richer in comedy. Edward Sutherland, whose capable direction brought doughboy life to the screen in "Behind the Front," directed this new picture.

Showing until Thursday night at Fischer's Appleton Theatre.

ADVERTISING BEST MEDIUM FOR SALES OF SURPLUS STOCK

Agricultural Expert Believes in Classified Ads to Move Crops

Madison—(P)—Surplus stock, seeds, fruits and vegetables on farms throughout the state may be disposed of most effectively through department of classified journalism department at the University of Wisconsin.

With winter on the country side, the time is most suitable for the disposal of such excess supplies and thereby bring the farmer a margin of profit which otherwise constitute a loss, he said.

For the lower priced surplus in the possession of the farmer," Mr. Summer said, "the classified advertisement is perhaps the most effective medium. It has the power to bring quick results and is usually read by the class of readers who are ready to buy bargains to meet their individual needs.

"Every farmer in the state has something to sell, some article or commodity that can bring him no profit but might be of service to another farmer in the same community or in a distant portion of the state.

"When the farmer has a small quantity of surplus seed or stock to dispose of the local newspapers could probably be used to the greatest advantage in securing results. When the quantity is larger a county paper will undoubtedly be the most satisfactory. As an even more effective medium the state press should be employed, combined with farm papers.

In exceptional cases, he said, the farmer occasionally resorts to expensive catalogues and booklets to create a market for his products, whether excess or not, but as a rule the expense is too great for the average farmer and would not be applicable for the sale of small quantity products.

"In using the classified advertisement," Mr. Summer said, "the farmer should not attempt to write too briefly because the saving of a few cents in this manner might result in decreased results. By clearly setting out the products that he has for sale, a buyer is almost certain to be found among the readers of the various papers, and, due to this, deterioration in his surplus stock will be prevented and the product placed in the hands of the individual with immediate needs for the articles."

SCHOOLS REOPEN AFTER THANKSGIVING HOLIDAYS

Schools here were opened Monday morning after a four day vacation, when teachers and pupils celebrated the Thanksgiving holidays at their homes. The regular schedule of classes was held and will continue until the Christmas vacation starting Dec. 17.

Conventions for high school students were held on Friday and Saturday in the state, in order that the school work would not be interrupted. The Older Boys conference of the Y. M. C. A. in Racine and the state convention of high school journalists under the auspices of the course in journalism at the University of Wisconsin were the largest conferences in the state.

Minor repairs were made at the school buildings by the janitors, and the furnace at the Lincoln school was given necessary attention.

500 ATTEND WEEKLY CHURCH MOVIE PROGRAM

More than 500 persons attended the weekly motion picture services at First Congregational church Sunday evening. "Her Greatest Performance" was the name of the picture. Carl I. Leases Of 400 Years Ago Still In Effect In London

London—(P)—Thousands of pounds profit are being made by some tenants of the city corporation who hold leases of land drawn more than a century ago and are subletting these cheap sites at modern prices. To make things happier for these leaseholders their tenure has a long time to run—2,000 years.

Some of the original leases of land owned by the corporation were drawn up 300 or 400 years ago and contained clauses making them perpetually renewable.

"The number of perpetually renewable leases," said an official, "is not very large, and new legislation came in to operation at the beginning of this year which terminates at a certain date all of them. But the date is 2,000 years ahead." Several big buildings in the city are only paying a ground rent value on an 1830 basis.

Dickens' decency make him stand out when compared to some of the modern writers is the opinion expressed by Sir Ernest Wild, in his presidential address to the Dickens Fellowship here.

"In my judgment literature was never richer than today and the best of our novelists are superior to the pioneers," averred Sir Ernest "While holding this considered opinion I cannot—nobody can—predict for any of our contemporary writers, with the possible exception of Kipling, that immortality which must be conceded to Dickens. There is one salutary point in which Dickens differs from some of the present writers, namely, in his strict adherence to decency."

LONDON COAL BOOTLEGGERS Coal bootleggers are causing the government much annoyance since the pinch of winter began. Owning to the miners' dispute with the mine owners government restrictions permit householders to have only a hundredweight of coal every fortnight, and bootleggers, who buy coal through secret channels, have been selling four to six sacks at a time to housewives in all parts of the city. The government has organized flying squads of inspectors to break up the bootlegging.

Great Britain's newest sea plane has been nicknamed "The Flying hen, low." This is because of its cooking and sleeping accommodations. The plane, carrying a crew of five, and driven by three high powered engines, has been designed to carry out experiments in connection with opening up a flying service to Australia and New Zealand. Bed hammocks are slung in a part of the cabin which in the day time is the living room. The galley is aft and eighteen to twenty-three passengers may be carried.

BADGER CAGERS PLAY FROSH IN FIRST GAME WEDNESDAY

Meanwell Works Green Men In Public Battle To Remove Stage Fright

Barnum, Hotchkiss Still on Bench: Bob Ashman to Get Chance With Frosh

Madison — Wisconsin's basketball squad will have its first opportunity of the year to perform before the public on Wednesday afternoon, as a regulation game with the Freshman five has been arranged for 4 o'clock. This announcement was made Monday by Dr. Walter H. Meanwell, Badger coach, with the idea of accustoming the recruits to playing before an audience, thereby removing the stage-fright evil which often gets the boys in the early season games.

Although the Cardinal cagers have been hard at it for more than two months, the entrances to the old Armory Gym have been tightly sealed and well guarded by managers. When the gates were thrown open Wednesday afternoon, hundreds of Badger teams will take advantage of this first chance to scrutinize the latest addition of Meanwell's short-past combination.

"I urge the student body and Madison basketball enthusiasts to attend these open practices," said Dr. Meanwell Monday. "There will be three similar games held prior to the opening of the conference season in January, and there is a decided advantage to the boys in working before a large crowd. They will be much more valuable to the team if the customary nervousness on the part of the newer men is worked off before the scheduled games are upon us."

Although no official line-up has been announced by the very tight Wisconsin mentor it is safe to assume that Frank Kowalewski, sophomore from Fort Wayne, Indiana, will draw center assignment. Although he has been alternating regularly at center with Tenhop, the former has a little the edge due to his defensive ability.

The forward jobs will be handled by Louis Behr, who played center last season and finished near the top of the conference scoring column. George Seligson and Charles Andrews, two of the forwards on Meanwell's 1925-26 quintette, and Eddie Powers, who has been shifted from running guard to forward. This quartette of sharpshooters are about on even terms to date, and any pair may be picked to work at the start against the Frosh.

Ralph Mierke, who is piloting the Cardinal team the first semester, will play as one of the guards in this game, while the other will be a toss-up between three recruits, Bill Stotts, Joe Murphy and John Doyle. All three of these defensive men have developed as well as could be expected, and are capable of holding their own in fast company. Rollie Barnum, regular back guard, will probably be kept on the bench until he is better conditioned for the game.

Other of the new men of the squad who will be alternated with the above mentioned are Ray Ellerman and Phil Koenig, forwards, and Duerst and Freitag, guards. The Frosh team will be selected almost entirely from the youngsters who have been working since early fall. Foster, Dunlap and Stone are the outstanding centers in the green contingent. The following forwards have shown promise: Dan Folsom, Mathusen, Heidrick, Diehl, Cross, Baulis, Grigsby, Peterson, Slusher and Sarbacker. The guards who will be used in the varsity encounter are Thiele, Petrie, Steiner, Ashman, Roberts, Cape, Nicodem, Yule and Czarnecki.

STAR PENN HALFBACK FORMS STAR GRID TEAM

Philadelphia—(P)—Charley Rogers, bridge-room and star halfback of the University of Pennsylvania has organized a professional team of his own.

He says his team will include outstanding players from several well known college teams when it faces the somewhat battered New York Yankees headed by Red Grange Saturday in Gotham.

Southern Methodist Is Grid Champ Of Southwest

Dallas, Tex. — The greatest all-round football team that has ever played in the southwest — that is the title that has been hung on the 1926 Southern Methodist University Mustangs of Dallas. For the second time in four years this eleven, coached by Ray Morrison, one of the greatest quarterbacks in the day that ever starred for Vanderbilt, has captured the Southwestern Conference championship.

For those who aren't familiar with the Southwestern Conference, its personnel follows: Southern Methodist University, Dallas; University of Texas, Austin; Texas A. & M. College, College Station, Tex.; Rice Institute, Houston; Texas Christian University, Fort Worth and the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville.

It was back in 1923 that Ray Morrison began to put the Mustangs on the football map. That year his team won for S. M. U. its first conference game in the history of the institution. Not only that, but the team marched on through the conference title.

That was the starter, and the Mustangs have been romping over rivals in a manner akin to their name — "wild horses" — ever since. During the last four years, including 1926, S. M. U. has met with only three defeats and only one at the hands of a conference rival. That was last year when it lost to Texas A. & M. 17 to 6 in a hard running battle.

One of the other defeats was suffered last year when Benny Owens, star University of Oklahoma Sooner, beat S. M. U. 9 to 6 on a date between two hard conference

APPLETON BOXER MEETS OSHKOSH STAR ON THURSDAY

Art Poggins, Tabbed from This City, Battles Young Shaw at Oshkosh

Art Poggins, who claims Appleton as his residence, will exchange swats with Young Shaw, well-known Oshkosh mitslinger, Thursday evening at the Sawdust city in an American Legion show, according to word from Oshkosh. The fight will be an 8-round semi-windup. Shaw has never been defeated in an Oshkosh ring, although he has had several hard fights. Poggins is no novice with the gloves according to local fans and his friends say he will make things hot for Shaw the entire scrap.

THE CARD
Windup—10 rounds.
Al Van Ryan of St. Paul vs. Johnny Nichols of Chicago.
Semi-windup—8 rounds.
Young Shaw of Oshkosh vs. Art Poggins of Appleton.
Preliminary—6 rounds.
140 pounds.
Jack Beal of Oshkosh vs. Art King of Green Bay.
Four-round opener.

Oshkosh—An octet of clever fist mongers, paired into four duo contests, will display their pugilistic abilities to each other and to the thousand or more boxing fans, who will pack into the armory here, Thursday, Dec. 2, to witness the legion's first indoor boxing show of the 1926-27 season.

Headlining the card, which has already attracted the attention of all live-wire sportsmen throughout the state, is the windup melee of ten rounds, in which Al Van Ryan of St. Paul will take punches with Johnny Nichols, Chicago's hard-hitting welterweight.

Although the two boys have national reputations as being topnotchers in their class, they have never been matched together before and their appearance in an Oshkosh ring is slipping across a bout that larger fight centers have been angling for, for some time.

Van Ryan is working like the proverbial beaver, according to information from St. Paul.

Van Ryan has every respect for the heavy-hitting Nichols, according to information from St. Paul.

When Van Ryan rates Nichols as a hard-hitting batter, he isn't placing the calculation a bit beyond the truth, according to press reports of Johnny's ring tactics. His fight with Glen Lange was described as "ten rounds of furious fighting" at a terrific pace.

The fight was a draw, but it is said that both boxers absorbed sufficient punishment to lay most fighters low. Nichols, especially, showed the stuff that real fighters are made of when, after being caught off balance under a heavy left and rights to the head, he recovered and forced Lange all through the remainder of the fight.

LINE PLUNGING OF PACKERS WINS, 7-0

Enright Scores Only Marker Against Detroit Panthers in First Period

Detroit—The Detroit Panthers lost their last schedule game of season Sunday to the Green Bay Packers, 7 to 0. The only score of the game was a touchdown made by Enright, Green Bay fullback, in the first quarter.

The game was played on a slippery field, which gave the usually fast Panthers no chance to show their speed. Several times when they were given breaks, the Panthers came within a few yards of their goal only to fall to score.

One good chance came in the second quarter, when Doane's kick was fumbled by Purdy of Green Bay, and recovered on the visitor's 18-yard line by Hultman. Then Scherer passed four times, but none of them were snared by the Detroit ends or backs.

The Scherer to Gregory passing combination failed to work gained most of their yardage by line plunging, and got through a line that neither Jim Thorpe of the Canton Bulldogs nor Ernie Nevers of the Eskimos were able to penetrate successfully.

The summary:

APPLETON ACES LOSE TO OCONTO CAGE MEN

Appleton Aces cage squad lost a hard-fought, 25-20 game at Oconto Saturday evening with the strong Oconto American Legion squad, last year a member of the state pro league with the Detroit Fairies. Two Rivers won as their opponent. The local men gave the crack squad a hard battle. Included in the Appleton lineup were Zussman, Schurik, Koll and Reitz.

GEORGETOWN GRID COACH

BABE CONNAUGHTON

"One of the best linemen I've ever seen." You're listening to Lou Little, football coach at Georgetown University, the school that whipped Syracuse and made the great Navy team hustle to win. The enthusiastic Mr. Little is talking about his star guard, Babe Connaughton. Babe, as you might surmise by the nickname, weighs around 265. He's a veritable rock in the Georgetown forward wall. Syracuse gained but 17 yards through Little's line, mainly because of Babe. They don't make 'em any bigger or better than this bird.

Strategy In Sports Is Judged Solely By Result

Strategy in sports is judged by results. That is unfortunate. Fear of being picked to pieces by the second-guessers makes for safety first methods rather than take-a-chance.

In baseball, if a manager sends in a pinch-hitter and he delivers, the move is lauded to the skies. If he fails, particularly if he strikes out, it is argued the regular player could have done no worse.

In football, if a player picks up a bounding ball and runs through a broken field for a touchdown, it is considered very smart. If he happens to fumble and the opposition recovers under the shadow of his goal, it is invariably regarded as a "bone-head."

Some of the recent big games offer an interesting study in football strategy judged by results.

In the Illinois-Penn game, which the former won by the score of 3-0, a drop kick by Frosty Peters being the deciding factor, a second-guess situation arose.

In this instance, on a fourth down Penn had a yard to go on the Illinois 19-yard line. Penn had been gaining rather consistently, and the Quakers signal-caller decided to shoot the works—try a plunge for a yard and then go for a touchdown.

Penn failed by inches to make the first down. The second-guessers took Murphy of Pennsylvania, who called the play, to task, insisting he should have given Paul Scull a chance to try for a field goal that would have at least evened the count.

The fact that Scull won the next two games from Penn State and Columbia by a field goal caused all the more growing over the Illinois incident.

In the Michigan-Ohio State game, Captain Benny Friedman of the Wolverines was confronted with a situation somewhat similar to the one Murphy of Penn faced at Illinois.

It was the third period, the score was 10-0, the fourth down with two yards to go and the ball inside the 15-yard line.

Would Friedman try a plunge for the needed two yards, would he attempt a drop kick, at which he is most proficient, or would he try a pass over the goal line? Earlier in the game he had completed such a play on the fourth down.

Try another pass over the line was a nervy play that took courage. He invited plenty of censure from the second-guessers. He took the chance.

A pass, Friedman to Hoffman, resulted in a touchdown. Michigan needed those seven points to win by a margin of one.

Friedman drew praise because he had succeeded. If he failed it would have been different. However, strategy that is good in success should be equally good even though it fails.

After the Princeton-Yale game, Quarterback Calkins, pronounced by Coach Bill Raper as deserving of being rated one of Princeton's great field generals, pulled a daring play that drew much censure. In all probability it was because Princeton was leading and safety-first tactics are considered best at such a time.

Calkins called for a pass behind his own goal line. It was intercepted and a few minutes later Yale had scored a touchdown.

Several years ago, when Princeton defeated Chicago, 21-13 in the most thrilling football game I ever saw, the Tiger successfully pulled such a play and it was much praised. However, Princeton was trailing in this instance.

I believe it was Gorman who called for a pass behind the Princeton line. He dipped a 40-yard toss to an eligible man, who gained 15 yards before being downed, and it was Princeton's ball in the center of the field. Another long pass, a few fine bucks

APPLETON WOMEN WORK FOR STATE BOWLING TOURNEY

Several Local Teams Expected to Enter Meet at Green Bay Feb. 4 to 9

Appleton women bowlers are pointing now for the 1927 Women's State Bowling tournament which will be held in Green Bay from Feb. 4 to 9. Last year the meet was held here, the farthest north it had ever been and a record attendance paved the way for another northern city, Green Bay. Early estimates indicate that approximately 250 teams from various state cities will be represented.

Extensive preparations are already being made to put the tournament over in big style, according to an announcement recently made by Mrs. Edna Smith, of Green Bay, the state president. Although the work has only been manifest among the various cities which expect to have large representations at the meet.

At this early date, it is not definitely known, how many Appleton women will be at the tournament. However, this city has always been well represented in bowling tournaments.

All teams must be lined up before Christmas to enable the officials in charge to have a complete schedule and progress made out for the visitors. The tournament is to be held in the Columbus Community club.

MANY CITIES TO ENTER
Entries are expected to be made from almost every large city in the state. Milwaukee, Racine, Kenosha, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Madison, La Crosse, Eau Claire, Janesville, Neenah, Menasha and Appleton will be among the leaders.

The numerous ladies' leagues of this city are all expected to have entries. Local alleys will be kept busy from now till tourney time, with local lady averages so that they can bring home some of the prizes of the 1927 tournament.

SERVICE GAME MAY BE PLAYED AT CHI AGAIN

Chicago—(P)—The midwest having made a spectacular job of staging its first Army-Navy football classic may do so again before many seasons have elapsed, if the wishes of numerous high officials as well as coaches of the rival teams materialize.

The service battle is slated for New York, probably at the Polo Grounds, next season, when the Army has the choice of a site. The 1928 game is expected to be played either in Baltimore or Philadelphia under Navy supervision after which another proposal to come west may be considered. If it is St. Louis will be at least one rival of Chicago for the distinction of playing host.

BILLY GIBSON PICKS DUANE AS LIGHT CHAMP

No less an authority than Billy Gibson, who piloted Gene Tunney to the heavyweight championship and who chaperoned Benny Leonard as lightweight king, is shouting the praises of Carl Duane, promising eastern youngster. Duane is headed for the lightweight toga in the opinion of the astute Mr. Gibson.

Duane gave an excellent account of himself in his recent bout with Tod Morgan, junior lightweight champion. Duane was for the first 10 rounds of the bout and looked to be a sure winner. However, he lacked the stamina to go the route, Morgan's reserve strength deciding the issue.

and the Tiger had a much-needed touchdown.

Followers of Penn State will never forget a similar play made back in 1919. From a punt formation Hess, five yards back of the goal line, threw a pass to Higgins on the 10-yard line, who raced 90 yards for a touchdown that won the game.

If strategy didn't hinge on results we would see much more of it attempted. It's too bad.

VALLEY HOCKEY LOOP MEETS IN APPLETON

Representatives of at least four cities of the Fox river valley will meet at the office of the Appleton Post-Crescent Monday evening to complete the schedule for the 1927 valley ice hockey loop. Skaters will be present from Appleton, Oshkosh, Neenah and Menasha and possibly Kaukauna and Kimberly. Two schedules, one a four-team and the other a five-team, will be prepared so that either may be used should a fifth team enter at the final moment. The schedules will be completed and the squads will be ready to go on the first regular date. Andrew Schlitz of Appleton is secretary-treasurer of the loop this year. Percy Sharp is captain of the Appleton team and George Uebeincher, manager. The locals will be known as the Schlotter-Gainey Maroons, the name which they carried to two valley titles in past years.

Record-Breaking Grid Season Leaves Legacy Of Dispute Over Titles

At Least Four Outstanding Elevens Have Title Claims; Others in Fight

The climax of a record-shattering football season of thrills and spills has left a legacy of greater dispute over mythical national championship honors than any campaign in years.

Where Notre Dame's "Four Horsemen" roamed victoriously far and wide in 1924 and Dartmouth's famous aerial artists decorated the heights without much controversy in 1925, the close of the regular 1926 season finds at least four outstanding elevens in the title debate. Rebuttals from two or three others further complicate the situation.

The most conspicuous post-season prospect, a New Year's battle at Pasadena between Alabama's Southern champions and Pop Warner's Stanford outfit which expect to have large representations at the meet.

STAR ATHLETE TO SEEK RHODES HONOR

Crack Two Miler of Montana University Sets Face Toward England

"Fine weather for ducks!" said Arnold Gillette as he galloped past a field of the fastest distance runners in the country to win the two-mile run at Stagg field last spring for the University of Montana and add a national championship to his many laurels.

Now this same Arnold Gillette is a candidate for the Rhodes Scholarship from Montana. He was the recent winner of the Pacific Coast Conference cross-country run at Seattle and besides all this holds the one and two-mile marks in the same organization, having set them within 20 minutes of each other.

Gillette weighs 121—a mere strapping physically. But when it comes to chasing around cinder ovals he is pretty much in a class by himself.

Gillette, by the way, is a busy boy on the Montana campus. When he's not studying, or training for a big race, he spends his time painting signs for the university and all campus organizations. The work helps to pay his way through school.

Recently he has taken it upon himself to see that no yellow slickers go around the campus undecorated and without his trademark.

Gillette doesn't feel that he is at the end of his string as far as records are concerned. He believes that he will do his best running in the next three or four years and is hopeful of showing Johnny Bull some sterling performances before he finishes his education over there.

Since England has a habit of turning out crack two-milers, Gillette is sure to find plenty of competition and regardless of whether he wins or loses, some mighty fast time is certain to be turned in for that distance.

ONLY 2 LAWRENCE GRIDMEN PLACE ON LEAGUE SQUAD

Journal Places Briese, Jessup on 1st Team; Hipke, Counsell, Nason Place

WISCONSIN-ILLINOIS TEAM
First Team Second Team
Bizer, Car. L. E. Parcells, L. F. Black, Car. L. T. Hoffman, Car. Stryzewski, Rip. LG COUNSELL, Law. Ueckle, Car. C. HIPKE, LAW. Jerzewsky, Car. R. G. Boettcher, Car. Hauser, Rip. R. T. Stamm, Rip. JESSUP, LAW. R. E. Johnson, Car. Lange, Car. Q. Flancher, L. F. BRIESE, LAW. R. H. Lund, Car. Bahr, Rip. F. B. NASON, LAW. Stacy, Car. L. H. Murchie, Rip.

Only two Lawrence college gridlers made the first Wisconsin-Illinois conference football squad of the Milwaukee Journal. Carroll college was given six places and Ripon three while the blue who tied Carroll for the state and W-I titles in percentage was given the leavings, only two positions. Jessup was placed at end and Briese at halfback, while Capt. Counsell, all-Midwest and all-state tackle for two years, playing one of his biggest seasons, was given a second team berth behind Hauser, Johnson and Black. Carroll, both of whom he outplayed in the season's games. On the second team Counsell, Hipke and Nason made the grade and Carroll again was given four places. Ott, stellar tackle, failed even to make the second squad of the Milwaukee paper, Stamm of Ripon, being given the preference.

Milwaukee—Carroll College, champions of the Wisconsin-Illinois conference for the second year, has six men on the mythical all-star football team of 1926 based upon the selections of several of the coaches and other followers of the conference games. Ripon has three and Lawrence two. Lake Forest and Northwestern college of Watertown failed to win a place. Injuries that kept certain men from playing in the big games also kept them from getting places on either the first or second teams. The choice was made according to the real worth of a man to his team both on defense and offense.

As the line stacks up, it combines both speed and weight. Jessup of Lawrence, one of the ends, is the lightest man in the front wall. He weighs 150 pounds. The other men range all the way up to 215 pounds. Ueckle, Carroll, center, tips the Toledo at this weight.

The backfield, composed of Lange of Carroll at quarter, Briese of Lawrence and Stacy of Carroll at halves, and Bahr of Ripon at fullback, combines both running strength and plunging drive.

Dizer of Carroll at one of the ends, ranked as the best wingman in the conference. He weighs 155 pounds and is tall and rangy. On offense, Lange, the way up to 215 pounds. Ueckle, Carroll, center, tips the Toledo at this weight.

Both ends are only first year men and in another year or so they should develop into two of the best wingmen in the history of the conference.

Black of Carroll, 155 pounds, and Hauser of Ripon, 155 pounds, received a call at the tackle. Black, a "smart" tackle, is fast and aggressive. The same for Hauser.

The guards, Jerzewsky of Carroll and Stryzewski of Ripon have plenty of weight, the former tipping the beam at 190 pounds and the latter at 200, but it did not hold them back in coming back and helping form interference. The weight of both is well distributed. It does not retard their speed. As the weight indicates, both are powerful. Stryzewski, in particular, is aggressive on top of this.

Ueckle of Carroll at center, one of the Ueckle family that has helped make football history at Marinette high school, is an excellent man against passes. His work as a roving center stood out all season. He is an accurate passer on offense and an aggressive fighter.

Lange of Carroll at quarter, weighs 170 pounds. He is a fine field general and an exceptionally good ball carrier.

Both Stacy and Briese, the first of Carroll and the second of Lawrence, halfbacks, are excellent broken field runners. Briese's work backing up the Viking, line was a fine piece of work all season. Stacy rates as one of the best safety men in the conference.

Bahr of Ripon, 185-pound fullback, is an exceptionally good defensive man backing up the line and a powerful plunger on offense. He had the honor last year.

Carroll also has four men on the second team—Hoffman, tackle; Boettcher, guard; Johnson, end, and Lund, half. Lawrence has Counsell at guard, Hipke at center and Nason at full and Ripon has Stamm at tackle and Murchie at half. Parcells of Lake Forest is at the other end and Flancher of Lake Forest at quarter.

SNOW FAILS TO KEEP CHILDREN FROM SCHOOL

The first heavy snow of the season fortunately fell during a temporary holiday so that it is considered probable that it had little effect or no effect on the routine in county rural school, it was reported Monday. All available reports indicated that attendance was possible at all country schools.

In the event where a child has to go more than two miles to reach classes transportation is provided under the statutes.

The parents can take the children to the school house and charge the district or other means are supplied, it was pointed out. No school in the county requires a trip much in excess of 2 miles, it was stated.

Broadway's First Nights Are Showoffs Of Fashion

New York —(AP)— Rooters have supplanted rounders at New York's theatrical first nights, but the producers still are in doubt of the box office merits of their offerings until after subsequent performances.

"First nights" in the motion picture world—or "world premiers" as they have become known—although a development of recent years are more far reaching in immediate commercial gain and more noisy than those of the legitimate stage.

APPLAUSE MISLEADING
In former years there was a considerable number of "men about town" who cherished attendance at every first night. When the curtain was raised, according to producers, they would greet the actors with a biased look that seemed to say, "I defy you to entertain me." If applause was forthcoming the producer knew his play was a success. If applause was slight a was frequent, the case, he was in doubt.

Now the first night audiences, aside from the dramatic critics, are composed largely of friends of the producers, the players and the authors, especially invited. Applause is plentiful and the manager, knowing the reason, is unable to decide from the apparent enthusiasm whether the show is really a "wow".

TYPES HAVE CHANGED
Producers attribute the change to the larger number and variety of shows as compared with a decade or more ago, and to the taste type of modern theatregoers. The first night is not the society event of other years, although occasionally a manager invites persons of social or other prominence to lend "distinction" to his show.

And the calls of "author, author" and the large personal following of stars which overflowed the theatres

The eschewon of Outagamie-co has remained without a blot for 9 days. It was reported Monday. In that length of time not a criminal prosecution has been made in either branch or county courts. However, it was pointed out by Judge Theodore Berg, the absence of criminal cases does not signify that the court calendar has not been full but the majority of matters were of minor civil nature or jury cases.

Other matters scheduled for transaction included an inspection of the new pavement on S. Superior-st., the Allen-st. stairway, and the new traffic light signals at the corner of College-ave and Oneida-st.

Traffic On Mississippi River Showing Decline

Keokuk, Iowa, —(AP)— With the commerce bearing season brought to a close several weeks earlier than usual by high water from the fall floods, the upper Mississippi river has taken on its winter quietude.

Fourteen fleets, with crews, pilots and clerical staffs of about 1,000 men have sought their winter quarters and soon the light house tenders will desert the Father of Waters, marking the end of another season of maintenance work for the dwindling river traffic.

PACKET BOATS DECLINE
The packet boat business seems to belong to the "show boat" age and apparently only some unusual transportation development will restore the one time demand for river carriers.

Only a few packets now are in operation on the upper river. Some excursion boats, which formerly were passenger carriers, still make short pleasure jaunts, but for the most part the traffic is made up of barge lines and their convoys.

Occasionally the river towns are visited by the show boat of another generation. These floating play houses still retain the trapping that characterized their first venture, but their productions have changed. Now, instead of Uncle Tom's Cabin, East Lynne, etc., they offer vaudeville, motion pictures and the latest in stock shows.

The government maintenance work on the river is designed largely to meet the requirements of the barge line services. The six foot channel is being built to meet the needs of these craft which promise to become more numerous if the Upper Mississippi Barge Line proposal is successful.

The upper river district includes 686 miles—from St. Paul to the mouth of the Missouri—and is carefully worked over by the government fleets each year. The lighthouse department looks after the lighting on the 81 bridges of the district.

The present season will close Nov.

15, when the Dandehon—appropriately named, as the first craft out in the spring and the last one in the fall—extinguishes the lights for the winter in this region.

WORKMAN IS BADLY BURNED BY STEAM

August Logre, 36, 1327 W. Washington-st., was severely burned about the face, neck and shoulders when he accidentally disconnected a valve on a pipe line carrying steam under heavy pressure at the Telukah mill of the Fox River Paper company about 9:30 Sunday morning. A small explosion followed and Logre received a charge of steam about the upper part of the body. He was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital where he will be confined for about 10 days.

Logic

Some people think the Indians Were savage folk and brutal; And therefore, that the redskin tribes Were useless folk, and brutal.

The ones who think a thing like that Evoke my scornful laughter; Without the Indian, what would we Have named our rivers after? —Herman Fetzer.

The True Sign

WAUPACA-CO BOARD NAMES EMPLOYEES FOR COMING YEAR

County Tax Rate $4.90 Per Thousand; All County Banks Are Depositories

Weyauwega—The county board re-elected the following officers: trustees of asylum, E. H. Ramm; superintendent and matron of the county house and farm, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Smith; highway committee: Richard Schoepke of Bear Creek, Simon Myhre of Iola, and B. A. Jorgensen of Union; highway commissioner, John Hueffert; county nurse, Mrs. Hazel Barton; janitor of courthouse, Julius Fredrickson.

Among other business transacted, the board of prisoners was fixed at $2.25 per week. Every bank in the county was made a county depository, provided each bank file a corporate surety bond with the county treasurer.

The old National Bank of Waupaca was made the depository for active funds. The county tax rate will be $4.90 per $1000, the rate last year being $5.99 per $1000.

The board also voted an appropriation of $2,000 to the Waupaca County Agricultural association for permanent improvements. No taxes was levied for truck road construction, as the funds for that work are provided for in the bond issue.

MISS KATE WOODS DIES

Relatives here received word Friday of the death of Miss Kate Woods, daughter of Mrs. William Woods of Gilson, N. H., after an illness of five weeks. Death was due to chronic diabetes. Miss Woods was state organizer of domestic science clubs and associations for the state of Delaware. The family were former residents of Weyauwega. Mr. Woods more familiarly known as "Bully" Woods, conducted a general store for a number of years.

Weyauwega people have been very much interested in the moving of the Gerolds Opera house Wednesday and Thursday evenings of this week. Douglas Fairbanks in The Three Musketeers. A former Weyauwega girl, Miss Mabel Whitney of Los Angeles, appears under the name of Marie Beersmore and acted as chaperone for Fairbanks' leading lady, Marguerite Delamonte, during the making of the picture. Miss Whitney is the only daughter of John L. Whitney of Los Angeles, formerly of Weyauwega, and brother of the late T. H. Whitney of this place.

INJURES HAND

Herman Helm met with a rather serious accident Thursday, when his right hand was caught between two rails, when they were pushed together. Besides a badly bruised hand, one of the bones in the hand was broken. Mr. Helm is being cared for at the Christofferson hospital at Waupaca.

Among the Weyauwega residents who spent Thanksgiving day out of town were: Fred Loos and his aunt, Miss Tillie Howsley, who motored to Neenah to spend the day with the latter's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. John Mayer; the Misses Mattie and Kate McCall, who went to Waupaca where they were guests of their brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McCall; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clark, who drove to Glenbeulah to spend the day at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hesler; A. F. Bratz who went to Random Lake to visit home folks; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Ritchie and the former's sisters, the Misses Kate and Martha Ritchie, who were entertained at the William Ritchie home in Royalton; Attorney and Mrs. George Classon, who were guests of relatives in Oconto; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ploymen and little son, who were guests of relatives in Waupaca.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Schult of Hopkinsville, Ky., are guests of relatives and friends here. Mr. Schult was formerly of Weyauwega.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Becker and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fagel drove to Chicago Wednesday to spend Thanksgiving with their daughters, Mrs. William Havemann and Mrs. Henry Havemann.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Hutchinson of Milwaukee, were guests at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Potter over Thanksgiving.

INTER-COUNTY BUS LINE CLEANS TWO HIGHWAYS

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Through the efforts of Harvey Graupman, manager of the Inter-County Bus Line, state trunk highways 2 and 15, between New London and Appleton, were opened for traffic Sunday afternoon after being closed for three days following the severe blizzard which swept this section of the state. A large snow plow attached to a Four Wheel Drive truck was dragged over the roads from 8 o'clock Sunday morning until late in the afternoon before the clearance was completed. Graupman and his assistant, Otto Froelich, worked continuously with the crew of men in order that the evening trip to Appleton and return could be made.

NEW LONDON SOCIETY

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—A social event of wide interest in this and the surrounding community occurred Sunday when Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Walker celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding at their farm home at Northport. Their children, Mrs. Anton Rueden of Unity, Lucile, Gladys of Milwaukee, Jane, Doris, William, Sherwood and Donald of Milwaukee, all were present. All but two of the grandchildren also were present as well as a large gathering of friends from the surrounding community. A dinner was served and Mr. and Mrs. Walker were presented with a radio set by their children. Henry Walker and Ida Jane Humes were united in marriage Nov. 28, 1876, at New London. Two years after their wedding they moved to the farm where they have lived ever since.

Miss Emma Schoerning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Schoerning of Liberty and Wilbur L. Jeffers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Jeffers of Bonduel, were married Saturday morning at the Emanuel Lutheran church in this city. Rev. Adolph Spiering performed the ceremony.

The attendants were Miss Hazel Schoerning, Miss Wiona Jennerjohn, Orba Ora and Julius Schoerning.

Following the ceremony the bridal party proceeded to the bride's home where a reception was held for about one hundred and fifty guests. The couple will reside in Milwaukee where the groom is employed.

VISA? THEY SHOULD WORRY

Just because they were unable to obtain a passport visa didn't deter Mrs. Henrietta Hipp and her daughter, Hilda, 11, from coming to the United States from their home in Hamburg, Germany. At Southampton, they stowed away on the S. S. Leviathan, on which Mrs. Hipp's husband is a steward, and would have perhaps entered New York but for the vigilance of the customs searching squad. This picture was taken, as reported, they began their return journey on the S. S. President Harding.

24 BOYS FILLED WITH NEW IDEAS AT CONFERENCE

Young Men Return from Inspirational Meeting in Racine

Twenty-four Appleton boys, delegates to the annual state boys' conference at Racine Friday, Saturday and Sunday, returned home late Sunday night. The boys were accompanied by John Puch, boys' work secretary and R. M. Dickmeyer, activities secretary.

The conference opened with a leaders' meeting on Friday morning, addressed by Dr. G. B. Waston of the national council of the association. Subjects taken up during the conference were: What Should We Do When Our Opinions Conflict with Those of Authority, such as Parents, Teachers and Leaders; Relations to Our Girl Friends; Relations to each other as to Religion, Class and Race; Principles of Christian Life.

The principal addresses were made by R. W. Schloerb of North Central college, Naperville, Ill. He talked on each discussion subject after the discussions.

On Friday afternoon the boys were asked to answer 60 questions on their attitudes on various subjects. On Sunday afternoon the boys answered the same questions again to see if the discussions had changed their attitude on any subject.

At the banquet Saturday evening, Dr. Sherwood Eddy spoke on the Three Keys to Success, saying that they were honesty, purity and willingness to do one's best. It was decided to leave the annual election of officers to the opening session of next year's conference. Because of this Harold Eads of Appleton, elected first vice president last year, will hold the office another year.

The local delegates to the conference will meet at 7 o'clock Monday evening at the association to outline the ideas they received from the sessions and to put them into a working order for the local boys' clubs. Sunday they will attend the First Congregational church at Menasha where they probably will give a report of the conference.

INDUSTRIAL LEAGUERS MEET TO DRAFT SCHEDULE

The final schedule of games for the Y. M. C. A. Industrial Basketball league will be completed at a meeting of representatives of the eight teams Wednesday evening at the association building. At a recent meeting it was decided to start play on Tuesday evening, Dec. 7, with a schedule of 14 weeks in which each of the eight squads will meet every other team twice. The season probably will end in March. After the schedule has been completed arrangements will be made to have every team ready to start by Dec. 7.

MEASLES IN SEVERE FORM PREVALENT HERE

Measles has taken an unusually serious form with children this winter, according to Miss Mary Orblison, city school nurse.

The serious character of the illness makes it particularly important that quarantine rules are strictly observed, the nurse continued. Parents have been urged repeatedly by the city nurses and health officers, Miss Orblison said, to keep the children home from school, and from any contact with other people. Even though the child has no measles or any other contagious disease, if he does not feel well, parents should take all precautions, Miss Orblison urged.

"DEAR, DIRTY DUBLIN" SCRUBBING ITS FACE

Dublin, —(AP)—"Dear, dirty Dublin" a traditional description of Ireland's capital, is being forgotten as the city is no longer dirty. The city commissioners have by a contract with a Paris firm, succeeded in cleaning Dublin's streets as they have never been cleaned before.

But the commissioners complain that the citizens handicap their efforts by careless habits and often strew the streets with match boxes, tram tickets, cigarette cartons and other litter. Advertisements are urging better habits, and school organizations have been formed to teach a better civic spirit.

ROTARIANS MEET TO BID RASEY FAREWELL

The Rotary club will honor Lee C. Rasey at a farewell banquet at the weekly luncheon at Hotel Northern Tuesday noon. Mr. Rasey will leave for Minneapolis where he will make his home.

IS COW OR MOTORCYCLE GUILTY?

Is a motorcycle or a cow at fault when the two meet, is a question before the magistrate of Te Anoa, N. Z. Robert Troughton, a farmer, sued William Jackson for $500 damages alleged to have been caused when he collided with Jackson's cow. Jackson counter-claimed $250 for his pedigreed heifer killed by the motorcycle. Troughton says Jackson is guilty of negligence in allowing the cow to roam the road, while Jackson claims that Troughton drove the machine carelessly and if he had kept a proper lookout he would have seen the cow. So the magistrate is scratching his head in perplexity.

FUTURE QUEEN TREADS PATH OF FLOWERS

The impatience with which Belgium awaited the arrival of Princess Astrid of Sweden, following her civil marriage in Stockholm to Leopold, Crown Prince of Belgium, was vented in the ovation she received when she reached Antwerp. Here are the Prince, his bride and her father, Prince Carl, of Sweden, proceeding along a flower-strewn thoroughfare to the train which bore them to Brussels for the religious services.

Mother-In-Law Cause Of Few Divorces, Lawyer Says

Chicago—(AP)—The age old picture of the mother-in-law as a cause of domestic woe is all wrong, concludes Charles E. Erbstein, who cites a record of his divorce cases to prove that the mother-in-law angle entered into so few as to be almost negligible.

Out of 1,772 divorce cases in which he has appeared as counsel, only six could be attributed to mothers-in-law, said the attorney, who gave as the most prolific cause of legal separation "the light oak piano or the purple plush patent chair in the parlor," meaning "installment plan" buying of furniture.

"DRINK, CRUELTY SECOND" "In my experience I have always found mothers-in-law eager and willing to smooth out the domestic differences of their children," writes Mr. Erbstein in his new book The Show-Up.

The attorney lists the causes leading to divorce as follows: "Installment plan," 656; drink and cruelty, 341; cabarets and dance halls, 178; cooking, 137; vamps (both sexes) 122; success to husbands, 114; court of domestic relations, 95; stage ambitions, 83; lack of children, 21; traveling jobs, 13; mothers-in-law, 6; miscellaneous, 4.

"The great American 'installment plan' makes marriage easy—in contemplation, at least—and it makes divorce excusable," he declared. "The broad item 'installment plan' may cover divorce cases which apparently came through drink, other women or other men, cabarets or the like. But hunted to its real source, the real reason is revealed in the 'installment plan' furniture.

"LIVE ABOVE MEANS" "The engagement ring, purchased 'so much down and so much a week' to show the other girls in the store or in the neighborhood has lured thousands of young couples into the sea of matrimony on the flimsy raft of 'easy payments,' only to wreck them on the hidden shoals of bankruptcy and divorce.

"It also strikes the married pair of more substantial means who find the easiest way to hold their heads over high among neighbors, are charge accounts and visits to the loan shark. Higher in the financial scale, it reaches its tentacles into the homes where the limousine and electric already are pampered wife 'just can't see why' her husband cannot afford to buy her a new town car with more fashionable upholstery."

TENANTS ALARMED BY SMOKING FURNACE

Persons living above a meat market at Superior-st and Wisconsin-ave. becoming alarmed when smoke filled their rooms late Saturday evening called the fire department. A smoking furnace was discovered. No damage was reported. The department was out 15 minutes.

POSTAL EMPLOYEES TALK OVER EFFICIENCY PLANS

Ways and means of improving the method of handling Christmas mail were discussed at the monthly meeting of Appleton Postoffice association Saturday evening. This was the first of a series of winter meetings on the third Saturday of each month.

Supper was served at 7 o'clock. It was prepared by Harry J. June, newly appointed chef. During the supper a musical program was given by the postoffice orchestra.

"CASCARETS" FOR HEADACHE, COLDS, CONSTIPATION

To-night! Clean your bowels and stop headache, colds, sour stomach

Get a 10-cent box. Take a Cascaret tonight to cleanse your Liver, Stomach and Bowels, and you will surely feel great by morning. You men and women who have headache, coated tongue, a bad cold, are bilious, nervous, upset, bothered with a sick, easy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out. Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets—merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; taking the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels.

Remember, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. A 10-cent box from your druggist means healthy bowel action, a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children.

"HIT AND RUN" DRIVER INJURES KAUKAUNA BOY

Roy Belling, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Belling, 934 Grignon-st, Kaukauna, had his leg broken in two places between the knee and hip at about 3:30 Sunday afternoon when he was struck by an automobile in front of the William Hulien's farm on Draper-st, Kaukauna. The car was headed toward Appleton and did not stop when it struck the child. The boy was taken to his home by a Hortonville doctor who was passing by and was later taken to St. Elizabeth hospital.

COURT DENIES ANOTHER TRIAL IN DIVORCE SUIT

MARRIAGE MART IS ON STRONG DECLINE FOLLOWING HOLIDAY

Perhaps Thanksgiving Day brought to their minds that there is still something to be thankful for, one cynic suggests. Perhaps visual and "victual" demonstration of what it costs father to set the festive feed before the family influenced others, perhaps it was ennui or perhaps almost anything, it was suggested.

But—the fact remains immutable, and indisputable—for two days following Thanksgiving there were no applications for marriage licenses filed in Outagamie-co.

A large shiny bulletin board on which these notices are posted, was session empty, lonesome and ignored for the first time in several months when the time limit of several applications expired and the notices were removed.

Y'S MEN WILL ATTEND GREEN BAY JAMBOREE

Plans for sending a large delegation to Green Bay Wednesday to attend the first annual jamboree of the Wisconsin district Y's Mens' club will be made Monday evening at the regular meeting of the Y's Mens' club. Four of Appleton, Wausau, Green and Milwaukee, are members of the state district.

This session will start at 3 o'clock and will end in the evening after a banquet at 6 o'clock. Round table discussions of Y's Men problems, a talk by L. A. Parr of Green Bay, a program of entertainment by the Green Bay club, and election of a new district governor will occupy most of the sessions. Dr. C. C. Schneider of Milwaukee, present district governor, was elected national governor recently. Each club will present a stunt.

The Appleton delegation will make the trip in cars and it is expected that at least 10 will attend from here. Frank Sager, club president, will lead one of the discussions.

E. H. Wright will have charge of Monday evening's program which will be a mysterious athletic carnival. Members will not be informed as to what will take place until the close of the regular meeting.

FORTY COLLEGE GIRLS BOWL ON "Y" ALLEYS

Lawrence college coeds will bowl at the Y. M. C. A. alleys from 4 to 6 o'clock Monday and Thursday afternoons through the winter, according to an announcement made by Miss Sylvia Roudeshush, director. The first group will roll on Monday, Nov. 29.

About 40 girls registered for bowling, the director said, and the Arcade alleys were engaged, but the small number who have come out for the sport is not sufficient for these alleys. It was believed that the college teams could fill the three alleys at the Y. M. C. A.
